Can Nixon Wake Us Up?

Had all been well there would have been no serious demonstrations. But there is severe economic distress in South America. And, as usual, there is in evidence a serious failure of communications. In Lima the Vice President was insulted in the most uncouth manner at the Communist-infiltrated University of San Marcos and the Catholic university as well. The questions asked and charges made revealed an almost total lack of accurate information on the subject of U.S. trade and tariffs.

There is evidence of much good will, considerable ill will, most of it Communist, and a great amount of misunderstanding. The Latin Americans seem to know all about the Lana Turner letters, the Hollywood doings, rock and roll, but not much about this country's policies and plans. This is a world-wide sickness.

Many members of our own Congress busy themselves with the impossible idea that everyone ought to buy from us, but that we should allow no foreign goods to be sold in this country.

If the travail of Richard M. Nixon, in his country's behalf, opens the eyes of the more blind senators and representatives, it will be most worthwhile. And if it awakens those governments to their own domestic political danger, that too will be helpful.

Economic Woe

In Argentina, where a new president was inaugurated, the Vice President and his staff heard a story of economic woe. The evil which Peron did endures. There is serious inflation. There is a slump in foreign trade. There are grave dislocations in other aspects of the country's transport and economy. The Communists and Peronistas are assisted.

In Uruguay, U.S.-owned meat-packing plants are closed because of excessive regulations. There are strikes, inflation and enormous discontent on the part of the have-not people, a class which makes up so much of the population of all countries south of us.

At La Paz, Bolivia, the Vice President found leaders resentful over this country's newly established tariffs on tin, lead, zinc, copper and other metals.

In Peru there was this same anger over the U.S. tariffs on lead and zinc, but cotton, too, was a point in debate. The Peruvians fear that their cotton markets are cut by U. S. "dumping."

Soviet trade mission already are taking orders and making barters in four of these countries. Local Communists, meanwhile, charge that U.S. trade policies are deliberately designed to wreck Latin Americans and make them subservient to dollar imperialism.

Coffee in Decline

In Colombia, Brazil, Guatemala and other smaller nations coffee is in a decline. And for them coffee sales are their economic life. Brazil has great amounts of oil, but refuses to allow outside interests to help develop it. So, she must buy oil from abroad with money needed for internal improvements.

Paraguay, where the Vice President visited, presented a dictatorship and a depressed people eager for relief.

Nixon did a good job, before and after this stop, answering questions as to why we recognized and dealt with dictators. He asked them what they would say if we sought to intervene in the domestic affairs of others.

Almost all these countries continue to build up armies and navies . . . which they do not need. Only Costa Rica, in Central America, refuses to have an army. Some actually are buying old-fashioned submarines and small fleets of jets.

We, on our part, have encouraged this by offers of arms for sale, and at bargain prices.

But this is not a time for recriminations. That there must be friendship and trade between the two hemispheres is not, and has not been, a matter for debate.

If the Vice President, by his courage and calm, can bring us all to our senses he will have done a major job in behalf of the future of both hemispheres.

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A school bus load of junior high pupils from Alabama and a pickup truck collided near here early Sunday, killing one person and injuring 43.

The dead man was Ralph Reed, 27, editor of the weekly Arab, Ala. Tribune. He was the husband of Mrs. Martha Jean Reed, junior class sponsor of the Union Grove, Ala., Junior High School. They had accompanied the class to Nashville for Saturday's performance of the Grand Ole Opry.

DRIVER HURT

The injured included 38 children in the bus, two of whom are in critical condition, the bus driver and three other adults who were accompanying them and the driver of the truck.

The truck driver, Marvin Hollis Burns, 31, Florence, Ala., was hospitalized here with serious injuries and was charged with manslaughter and drunken driving.

Trooper John Edwards said the charges were filed after a sample of the driver's blood was taken to Nashville and checked for alcohol content.

DRIVER'S VERSION

"I saw it was going to happen when the truck, northbound, veered into our southbound lane," said Silan Graves Berry, 54, Guntersville, Ala.

"Then in a split second it did happen. The truck hit us on our left just behind my driver's seat.

"The road was on a straightaway at that point. It had rained earlier in the night but had stopped.

"I've been driving school buses 18 years and this is the first time I've been involved in an accident."

Burns was still dazed in midmorning and unable to talk.

HOSPITAL FILLED

The Lincoln County Hospital in Fayetteville was filled to overflowing with the injured.

Wayland Cooley, principal of the school, his wife, Mrs. Hazel Cooley, and their son, Sidney, 14, were among the injured. In serious condition were two pupils, William Gregg and Junior Terrell, both with head injuries.

Among the less seriously injured were twins Coy and Troy Bramlett, 14. All the boys and girls were 14 or 15 years old.

Cooley said, "Our boys and girls conducted themselves marvelously. There was no panic.

COOL PUPIL COURAGE

"They all pitched in like adults; for 14 and 15 year olds I've never seen such cool courage.

"I was concerned about the possibility of a fire or explosion because we had just filled up back at Fayetteville and gas and oil was spilling all over everything. Luckily there was no fire.

Lockheed, Union Try New Talks

By MARION GAINES

Union and company officials will begin another round of bargaining at 2 p.m. Monday in an effort to settle the four-day-old strike at Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Marietta plant.

Developments Sunday in the walkout that has idled some 8,000 members of District 33, International Association of Machinists, included:

(1) Lockheed officials said the contract approved Saturday by Lockheed workers in California "is substantially the same financially, except for the retroactive pay clause, as the contract offer made by the Georgia Division" prior to the strike.

(2) District 33 President E. A. Demcheck said, however, that "the contract that was accepted in California had no such language as that affected at the Georgia Division."

(3) The company said "the first B47, under a special modification contract, left the production line Sunday afternoon with its modification complete and has been returned to the flight line to be readied for delivery."

Pre-strike deadline for completion of the first B47 modification was Saturday, a Lockheed spokesman said.

(4) Hubert Gammon, union communications chief, said the first modified B47 had been "shook down" and work on it "substantially completed" prior to the

37 New Births Recorded Here On Mother's Day

With everybody talking about Mother's Day Sunday, at least 37 Atlanta women did something about it—they had their babies Sunday.

A check of Atlanta hospitals showed 37 new births by midnight Sunday, and, of course, a lot of babies are still being born at home.

Expand Foreign Aid, Dulles Pleads Anew

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said Sunday the United States must act on many fronts to avoid being "more and more closely encircled by a hostile despotism which seeks to strangle us."

In a new appeal for support of the administration's foreign aid and trade programs, Dulles said the Soviet Union is making alluring offers of aid to less developed countries over the world and thus trying to subvert the independence of those countries.

WOULD BE TRAGIC

In the circumstances, he said in a speech prepared for the Minnesota centennial celebration, the United States must do all it can to help such nations because it would be tragic for them and for this country if the Soviet maneuver succeeded.

"Our nation wants and needs an environment of freedom," he said. "We dare not sit idly by to be more and more closely encircled by a hostile despotism which seeks to strangle us."

Dulles argued too that "The independence and prosperity of nations must also be served and enriched by trading the products of their labors."

PROMOTE TRADE

He said the U. S. program of reciprocal trade agreements under which some tariffs are reduced serves to promote needed trade while providing restraints on foreign competition "where protection (of American industries) is justified."

Dulles flew here overnight from Paris where he had met with U.S. ambassadors from Western European capitals and Moscow. Earlier last week he attended a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at Copenhagen and won resounding support for his contention that any summit meeting with the Soviets must be carefully prepared in advance.

Both the administration's foreign aid and foreign trade programs are in trouble in Congress. President Eisenhower asked for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade program with additional tariff cutting authority, but moves are under way to hold the extension to one or possibly three years and to limit or cancel the President's tariff cutting powers.

Ike Aid Bill Faces Test In House

By ALLEN DRURY
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

In the house, debate begins on the $2,958,000,000 Foreign Aid Bill.

In the House Ways and Means Committee, supporters of reciprocal trade meet in a last-ditch attempt to work out with the Administration a compromise measure that will survive a resurgent high-tariff sentiment.

PRESENT INDICATIONS

Present indications are that the mutual security authorization bill, trimmed some 10 per cent under the Administration's original request by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, may escape further heavy cuts in House debate. But the bill to extend reciprocal trade, stalled in a tussle between a stubborn White House and a determined ways and means committee, faces its greatest crisis since the program began in 1934.

These twin events—which together form, in a very real sense, one of the most serious policy crises since the end of World War II—could conceivably force a fundamental reassessment of this country's entire foreign policy.

TRADE BILL

Should the Administration and the ways and means committee fail to come to an agreement that would save the trade bill, a major pillar would be knocked from benear that policy. And if the aid bill, too, should suffer presently unforseen inroads from recession-conscious congressmen, the Administration would be forced into a far-reaching reappraisal of all the assumptions upon which its present policies rest.

On the eve of the mutual security debate, the measure today

Ready To Discuss A-Ban Controls, Russia Tells Ike

White House Says Note Encouraging

By ROBERT WHITNEY
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — The White House said Sunday that the latest Russian note to President Eisenhower "might serve as the basis for progress toward agreement on disarmament."

This view was given in a formal statement by the President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, after the Russian radio had confirmed that Soviet Premier Khrushchev wrote expressing willingness to hold techinical talks with the United States on the problems of ending nuclear weapons tests.

Hagerty said:

"Premier Khrushchev's letter of May 9 seems to constitute recognition of the validity of the position long held by the United States, the other western members of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee and the overwhelming majority of the General Assembly of the United Nations, that examination of the technical aspects of disarmament measures should begin as soon as possible and might serve as the basis for progress toward agreement on disarmament.

SINGLE ISSUE

"It is noted that the Soviet Union's acceptance of this position relates only to discussion of the single issue of nuclear test suspension and not to the more important elements of disarmament which the General Assembly has endorsed.

"It is to be hoped that this acceptance presages agreement to begin similar discussions on other measures of disarmament.

"Premier Khrushchev's letter will of course receive careful study and will be the subject of early consultation with our allies."

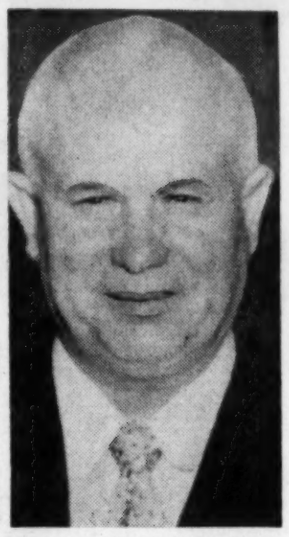

The Khrushchev note, which was delivered at the State Department at 11:30 a.m. yesterday, was in reply to the letter which President Eisenhower sent him on April 28.

ARCTIC ZONE

In that letter Eisenhower urged the Russian leader to support the U. S. resolution in the United Nations on setting up an Arctic inspection zone against surprise attack.

The President also asked Khrushchev to reconsider the Soviet's repeated rejection of the West's proposal to set up technical

AGREES, WITH DOUBTS
Nikita Khrushchev

Arctic Pact Rejected by Khrushchev

LONDON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev said in a message to President Eisenhower published Sunday that the Soviet Union is ready to negotiate on ways to assure that any world agreement on ending nuclear tests is properly enforced.

Radio Moscow quoted Khrushchev as saying the Soviet Union "agrees to have either side appoint experts who would immediately start studying the means of detecting possible violations of the agreement ending nuclear tests."

One provision was made by the Soviet Premier — "that work should be completed in the shortest term agreed upon beforehand."

APRIL 28 LETTER

Moscow broadcast a summary of the message delivered in Washington Saturday. This replied to a letter from Eisenhower April 28 urging Soviet support of the American proposal for an arctic inspection plan aimed at forestalling surprise attacks.

Khrushchev in his new message rejected the arctic plan.

Khrushchev described the Soviet's decision to end nuclear tests unilaterally as a "first practical step toward a termination of the atomic weapons race."

Khrushchev's message once again called on the United States and Britain to stop testing nuclear weapons. Russia announced the end of its own tests March 31.

FINAL SOLUTION

The Soviet Premier said his government was agreeing to talk about controls over any agreement to end tests "in spite of its serious doubts."

He urged Eisenhower "to support the Soviet initiative in ending nuclear tests, thus making possible the solution of the problem once and for all, which is so ardently desired by the peoples of the world."

The broadcast summary said: "Khrushchev's message says that since the President regards as very important the work of experts in studying technical details pertaining to the control over the implementation of an agreement ending nuclear tests, the U.S.S.R., in spite of its serious doubts, is prepared to try out that way as well."

RECENT TESTS

Khrushchev expressed regret that the United States and Britain have carried on nuclear weapons tests in the last few days. He declared ending of tests by the three H-bomb powers would place the Soviet Union and its allies at a disadvantage in comparison with the United States and the Atlantic Alliance powers. He said, however the Soviet Union had unilaterally ended its tests because it was "desirous of making the first practical step toward a termination of the atomic weapons race."

Khrushchev brought in Eisenhower's arctic inspection porposal almost as an afterthought, repeating the Soviet demand for a halt to "the menacing flights of U. S.

Tito Gets New Soviet Ultimatum

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

BELGRADE—The Kremlin has sent a new ultimatum to President Tito of Yugoslavia, east European diplomats reported Sunday night.

Moscow's terms were set forth, these sources said, in a stern letter from the central committee of the Soviet Communist Party. Ivan K. Zamchevsky, Soviet ambassador in Belgrade, was said to have brought the letter when he returned from Moscow yesterday.

In an atmosphere of deepening crisis the Yugoslav foreign ministry finally confirmed what had been common knowledge in diplomatic circles here for several days — that the scheduled state visit of Kliment Y. Voroshilov would not take place.

SUNDAY WAS DATE

The Soviet chief of state was to have arrived Sunday.

Ambassador Zamchevsky, himself a central committee member, took part in its two-day meeting last week ostensibly dedicated to problems of the Soviet chemical industry.

There is reason to believe, however, that the main business of the central committee was to lay out a program for isolating and punishing the Yugoslav Communists, whose party program is being bitterly denounced throughout the Soviet bloc as a betrayal of Marxist teaching.

JOIN OR ELSE

According to East European sources, the latest Kremlin ultimatum to the Yugoslav central committee called on Tito to join the Soviet bloc and accept its discipline or suffer the consequences.

No party has a right to call itself Communist when it rejects the ideology and practice of all other Communist countries, the letter was reported to have said.

3 Road Workers Tell of Orders To Buy from Corrections Official

By JACK NELSON
Constitution Staff Writer

MOUNT VERNON—Three men have sworn they had to pick up their State Highway Department pay checks from a corrections official with whom they said they were ordered to trade.

In affidavits given to The Atlanta Constitution, the men said that R. W. Geiger, highway maintenance foreman at Mount Vernon, told them they had to trade at a general store operated by W. B. Morrison, member of the State Board of Corrections.

Morrison acknowledged that on a "few occasions" Geiger left the highway checks with him to give to the employes of the maintenance shop here. But he emphatically denied that any "coercion" took place to get the men to trade at his Mount Vernon store.

"There was no coercion on anybody to trade with me," Morrison declared. "Highway people have been trading with me for 30 years."

Geiger also denied he had ordered the men to trade at the store.

The affidavits came from two maintenance shop employes and from one former employe of the shop. The two employes said that they were afraid they would lose their jobs if they talked. But they said they would sign affidavits.

The former employe also told of borrowing money at Morrison's store.

"He would lend me amounts anywhere from $5 to $20 and I would have to repay the loan within a week or two weeks," the former employe said in his affidavit. "Mr. Morrison charged me 25 cents for borrowing $5, fifty cents for borrowing $10 and one dollar for borrowing $20.

Morrison acknowledged that he sometimes lends money and "will charge as much as 50 cents for lending $10." He said he is "certainly not operating a loan shark business" and lends the money more as an "accommodation" for customers than anything else.

He said that often when he

Plane Travelers Wade As Airport Is Deluged

Standard operating procedure for passengers arriving at Atlanta Municipal Airport Sunday night was to take off shoes and socks, roll up trousers, and wade from the plane to the terminal.

A cloudburst which dumped more than two inches of rain on the airport in about 20 minutes flooded the concourses and some water trickled into the terminal itself. Automobiles parked in low-lying areas had water over the hoods, one observer said.

The control tower said that winds rose to 72 miles per hour during the storm, holding up all air traffic during the intense downpour. Telephone lines and intercom systems in the terminal were drowned out.

One veteran control tower operator at the airport said that he had never seen such rain in all the time he had been working there.

The heaviest part of the rain came at 8:21, and continued for about 20 minutes. Instrument readings at the weather bureau showed that 2.01 inches fell in two hours, most of it in the 20-minute period.

The weather bureau predicted partly cloudy skies for Monday and Tuesday with warm weather both days. The weatherman said that there would be widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers both days, "but probably nothing like this storm we had Sunday night. You don't see those often."

Bogota Hails Nixon; Reds Shouted Down

He Notes Spitting Gestures, But the 'Go-Homes' Fizzle

By TAD SZULC

BOGOTA—Colombian Communists were outnumbered and outshouted by pro-United States crowds here Sunday and it added up to the best and warmest reception Vice President Richard Nixon has had on his South American trip. On two occasions groups of vociferous youths undertook to stage "go home Nixon" demonstrations but both times they fizzled out as Communist jeer leaders could not get the crowds interested in joining them in anti-American chants.

In front of the Hotel Tequendama shortly after noon, as Nixon arrived from the airport, and in the afternoon at the statue of Simon Bolivar, South America's liberator, the Communist effort was confined to 100 to 200 well-disciplined persons.

SPAT AT BY 3

Nixon told newsmen later that at least three persons spat in his direction. Discussing the noontime episode he said that "the Communists seem to be a little confused and don't know what to do."

But he said those who gathered to demonstrate against him showed "hatred — pure unadulterated hatred." The vice president estimated that the noontime crowds friendly to him outnumbered his foes by about ten to one and in the afternoon the ratio appeared to be even greater.

The demonstrators broke out in jeers and cries of "Nixon No" when the martial band of the presidential guard, resplendent in red-and-blue uniforms, played the Stars and Stripes at a ceremony of laying a wreath at Bolivar's statue. The immediate response from the crowd was calls for silence and shouts of "Long live Nixon," "Long live the United States."

SEVERAL DETAINED

Policemen unostentatiously detained several of the leaders at demonstrations both Sunday morning and afternoon. Arrested in the afternoon was a girl wearing a red skirt and blue blouse who made herself conspicuous on both occasions by fist-shaking and shouting.

Wherever he went Sunday the vice president was cheered lustily and on three occasions was virtualy mobed by persons who wanted to shake his hand or get an autograph.

Driving from the airport into the city, Nixon stood up all the way in a convertible waving at crowds of children and adults along the highway and the city's streets. He stopped the car twice to chat with students.

The warm reception for Nixon here pleasantly surprised U.S. authorities. On the basis of earlier reports, anti-Nixon demonstrations of substantial proportions had been expected in Bogota. It was thought that the riots of Thursday in Lima, Peru, when demonstrators stoned the vice president and pelted him with eggs and oranges, might be repeated here.

The Colombian government took all possible precautions to avoid embarrassing incidents. A platoon of white-helmeted mounted police awaited him at the hotel but it had relatively little to do.

Graham Urges Wives Stay Attractive And That Their Husbands Be Generous

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Evaneglist Billy Graham Sunday urged wives to stay attractive and husbands to be a generous banker in the home.

Graham, who has voiced approval of the sack dress, told a Cow Palace crowd officially reported at 16,300, that "a wife should stay attractive—no wonder some husbands don't come home."

He opened the third week of his eight-week crusade here speaking on "problems of the home, and how to pick a mate."

"No woman," Graham said, "can be truly beautiful apart from Christ. Christ can give a woman more physical beauty and attractiveness than all the formulas, diets and slenderizing schemes put together."

Wives have a responsibility to stay attractive, he said, but husbands should "love your wife. Show your love to her."

"How long has it been since you brought her flowers or a box of candy or kissed her when you left home?" Graham asked.

He said one of the reasons for the breakup of marriages is that "partners in the marriage are breaking God's rule. Husband and wife in the home are to be equal, but there's to be a difference in responsibility."

Part of the male responsibility, he indicated, is to be banker, but a generous one.

"Don't be a tightwad," Graham cautioned husbands. "Each wife should have a certain sum of money all her own that she can spend with no questions asked."

Couples, he added, should "remain sweethearts in marriage as in the years of courtship."

Before the talk Graham told newsmen he had received an estimated 35,000 letters as a result of his first nationwide telecast last Saturday.

Sunday 575 persons, including many couples and families, went forward in "decisions for Christ," bringing the total to 8,180 for the crusade. This is slightly below the figure for the New York crusade for the same period, as is also the attendance here—229,800.

Small Atomic Weapon For Foot Soldiers Seen

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON—Army researchers are proposing development of a miniature atomic weapon which could be carried into combat by the infantryman.

The weapon, which would be smaller than a volley ball in size, would give the foot soldier a fantastic punch, dwarfing the power of his conventional arms. The striking power of any infantry crew would become measured in terms of thousands of tons of TNT.

Army research and development officials believe there are no insurmountable technical obstacles in the way of development of such a weapon. The whole trend of atomic weapons development in recent years has been toward smaller size, and Army researchers see their weapon as the logical extension of this trend.

The primary obstacle to the Army proposal is not technical but rather an interservice fight over big vs. small bombs. Closely tied in with this argument is the adequacy of the nation's production of plutonium for atomic weapons.

Officials in touch with the nation's atomic weapons program report that thus far the Air Force, with its advocacy of the "big bomb" concept, has been able to block a go-ahead on development of the infantry weapon.

AIRBORNE WEAPONS

The Air Force argument has been that the overriding priority on plutonium supplies must go into production of the bigger weapons and the tactical and defensive warheads now being developed for missiles. It also has contended that the mission of the infantry weapon can be accomplished just as well by airborne and missile-borne weapons in the hands of the Air Force and artillery.

The Air Force argument, however, is running into potent opposition in the form of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy. Several influential members of the committee are enthused over the Army project and believe it should be pushed—even if it means an expansion of plutonium production facilities.

Indicating a common feeling within the committee over the feasibility of the Army project were the comments of Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of the military applications subcommittee. Jackson said "There is no doubt about the ability to get atomic weapons so small just a few people can handle them with mobility. We are convinced it can be done."

SECRET HEARING

Jackson's subcommittee will start secret hearings Monday to go into the entire question of military requirements for small and large weapons and plutonium to produce them.

The hearings will furnish committee Democrats with ammunition for their campaign to construct a new plutonium-producing reactor to cost $126,000,000 or more. Expansion of plutonium production has encountered a recent sympathetic reception from the Atomic Energy Commission. There has been a reluctance on the part of the Defense Department, however, to raise its military requirements for plutonium and on the part of the Administration to put up the money for construction of a new plutonium reactor.

Money for a plutonium reactor was stricken from the commission reactor program for the coming year by the Bureau of the Budget.

New Fight Breaks Out In Lebanon

'Foreign' Arabs Blamed in Beirut

By LARRY COLLINS

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (UP)—New gun-fighting erupted in this Lebanese city Sunday in the third straight day of anti-Western rioting allegedly organized by "a foreign Arab power."

Bands of pro and anti-government civilians exchanged shots today as the violence spread for the first time to the Mena area of Tripoli — Lebanon's second largest city.

At least three persons were admitted to city hospital suffering gunshot wounds following exchanges of fire.

The new outbreak followed Saturday's pitched battle in which troops and police battled thousands of anti-government demonstrators who sacked and burned the U. S. Information Service Library.

In Beirut, heavy police forces guarded the U. S. Embassy. Reports from the capital said three bombs exploded there during the night, one of them knocking out electric power for a time.

Total casualties from the three-day wave of violence here were still not known. A check of hospitals in the area showed nine persons dead out of 85 hospitalized.

Carolina River Routs 85 Families

TARBORO, N.C. (AP) — About 85 families, dispossessed by the muddy Tar River, bedded down Sunday night in school buildings and waited for the flood waters to recede.

Swollen by heavy and continuous spring rains, the Tar swirled out of its banks and into 110 homes in the Negro community of Princeville.

Police reported no casualties.

Eighty-five of the families chose the safety of school buildings in Princeville and Tarboro, but 35 others decided to try to stick it out past the river's crest, expected Monday.

Acting on the request of local officials, Gov. Luther H. Hodges ordered out National Guard troops to assist in the evacuation and to prevent looting of the abandoned homes. Two officers and 40 men were ordered to active duty.

Men Over 40 Proposed for Nuclear Mopup

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — More bad news for the "over-40" age group has come out of the Bethesda Naval Medical School here.

During a symposium, Capt. A. R. Behnke of the Navy's Radiological Defense Laboratory proposed that a reserve corps of middle-aged men be readied to race into areas contaminated by radioactivity after a nuclear attack.

Behnke reasons that someone will have to go in to restore a semblance of order and that the middle-aged, because of their lower reproductive outlook, should be the ones to take the risk while youth sits it out in uncontaminated safety to assure the future of the race.

Here appears grist for philosophical debate about a society's dependence on its elders for wisdom and experience. Perhaps the most pertinent reply to Behnke is Noel Coward's musical question: "What's going to happen to the kiddies when there aren't any more grown-ups?"

Action on Public Works Is Expected in House

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospects improved Sunday for House action within the next 30 days on antirecession proposals for a two-billion-dollar public works program.

Rep. Brent Spence (D - Ky), chairman of the House Banking Committee, said he expects to wind up lengthy committee hearings and start closed-door sessions May 29 on drafting legislation for House consideration.

The committee will also take windup action on other anti-recession proposals—federal assistance to depressed communities with chronic unemployment, and ways to provide easier financing for small business.

HEARS WITNESSSES

For a month the Banking Committee has been hearing witnesses on economic and unemployment problems, and still has a couple of weeks to go.

Spence said the community facilities bill for financing local public works projects will be taken up first "because it provides anti-recession weapons that can be used quickly and efficiently."

"After four weeks of testimony by distinguished governors and leaders of industry, labor and agriculture, I am convinced that a program of increased federal loans for local public works projects ought to be enacted without undue delay," he said in a statement.

SENATE BILL

The Senate already has passed a bill providing for one billion dollars of federal loans for this purpose. As introduced by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D - Ark), it called for two billion dollars but this was halved in Senate committee.

Spence introduced the Fulbright bill in the House. Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala), also a member of the Banking Committee, is author of a 2½-billion-dollar measure.

The Spence-Fulbright bill would permit state and local agencies to borrow from the government for projects like sewer systems, airports and schools on 50-year repayment terms at an interest rate of 3 or 3½ per cent.

RATE PROBLEM

Although the Senate bill calls for a 3½ per cent interest rate on community borrowings, Spence said he favored a 3 per cent rate. He opposed a 2 per cent rate backed by mayors who have appeared before his committee.

The Eisenhower administration is opposed to a large-scale public works program of the type proposed by Spence and other House Democrats.

15 Skiers Buried By Avalanche

BRIENZ, Switzerland, (AP) — An avalanche crashed down the north face of 7,720-foot Brienrzer Rothorn Peak Sunday, burying a party of 15 Swiss skiers.

Four persons were killed instantly and seven others were taken to a hospital with serious injuries. The other four were dug out unhurt.

Ex-Wife's Faith, Reporter's Doggedness, Anonymous Letter, May Liberate Lifer

DENVER (AP) — An anonymous letter, a reporter's determination and a woman's undying faith in her former husband likely will result in a new trial for a Denver man convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for murder.

Bethel E. Brooke

The convicted man is Bethel E. Brooke, 36, presently in the Denver County jail. Brooke was convicted in Denver District Court last Dec. 19 of the fatal shooting of Mrs. Edith Norma Marck, 25, a divorcee.

Mrs. Marck was found dead in Brooke's trailer home July 13, 1957. She died from a slug from a .38 caliber revolver.

Brooke denied the slaying during his trial. He claimed Mrs. Marck, mother of two, killed herself and that he tried to prevent the suicide.

The anonymous letter linking a second man to the death of Mrs. Marck was received by the Denver Post early this year. This, the Post said Sunday, was the key to indicating that Mrs. Marck's accused killer could be telling the truth when he said he did not shoot her to death.

The typewritten letter was turned over to John Snyder, a Post reporter, for investigation. Snyder went to work on the case in mid-February. He began a long series of interviews with people who knew Brooke and Mrs. Marck and interviewed Brooke himself.

Snyder came up with a male suspect. "The man began to look pretty good," Snyder said. "I went out to County Jail (Denver) . . . and told him (Brooke) I had something I thought looked good, but that I wasn't going to do anything more with it unless he took a lie detector test."

Brooke agreed. The Denver Post hired local and internationally known experts to conduct the tests. The newspaper said the polygraph tests indicated Brooke was telling the truth when he said Mrs. Marck killed herself.

After the tests, the lie detector experts also told Snyder:

"There isn't any other man in this. You can forget your suspect."

The tests also showed that Brooke lied to the court when he said he wasn't in the trailer when the woman was killed.

"I was afraid I would be convicted for sure if anyone knew I was in the trailer when she killed herself," Brooke said upon hearing results of the tests.

Mrs. Mary Ann Brooke, 34, Brooke's wife, wept alone when her former husband was given the mandatory life sentence. She told the Post Saturday she believed Brooke was innocent all the time.

"Bethel told me that he was present when Mrs. Marck shot herself," Mrs. Brooke said. "He has never lied to me. I believed him then and I believe him now. But he trapped himself by not telling the truth all the time."

Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating said he would ask that Brooke's conviction be set aside and a new trial granted.

"We certainly don't want an innocent man in prison," Keating said.

The polygraph tests were conducted by John S. Reid of Chicago and S. A. McCauley, chief investigator for the District attorney's office. After several weeks of investigation, the Post hired Reid to make additional tests.

Reid came to Denver last Wednesday and gave Brooke a series of six examinations.

"Our unanimous conclusion is that Brooke is innocent—that he did not kill her (Mrs. Marck)," Reid said.

The Brookes, married 16 years ago in California, were divorced April 15, 1957. Because she is a Catholic, Mrs. Brooke said Saturday she still considers herself married to Brooke. The Brookes have three children.

Mrs. Brooke said if Brooke is freed after a new trial, they will be remarried to meet civil requirements.

She said their marriage broke up under strain of two jobs and that neither quarreled.

"I had a job. He had two jobs. We were never home at the same time. But I still love him. I never could get him out of my mind. And the children — they adore him."

11 Killed in State Traffic, 3 As Cars Dive to Creeks

Eleven persons—including an Atlanta pedestrian—were killed in weekend motor traffic, police said. Three of the victims were reported to have drowned.

One man was killed and three injured in a head-on collision involving a gasoline tank truck and an automobile at Rome, police said.

Rome Patrolmen L. T. Bolt and Gene Pope identified the dead man as Joe Hamilton, Negro, of Rome, an occupant of the automobile. Two other passengers in the car, James Freeman and Reuben Ragland, also of Rome, were admitted to the Floyd County Hospital suffering head injuries and shock.

QUIZZED ON DRINKING

Patrolmen said the driver of the car, Will Henry Lee of Rome, was treated for lacerations and bruises and booked in jail for investigation of manslaughter and drunk driving.

All occupants of the car were identified as Negroes.

Patrolmen said Lee was driving south on Kingston Avenue, an extension of highway 411—and was on the wrong side of the road when the car collided with a north-bound gasoline truck driven by Turner H. Highfield, of Rte. 6, Rome. Highfield was not injured. Officers said no charge was placed against him.

BOY STRUCK, KILLED

A 14-year-old boy was killed and two companions injured late Sunday when struck by a car near Donalsonville, the state patrol said. The victim was identified as Robert Lewis of Rte. 2, Donalsonville. The names of the injured were not immediately available. The youths were struck five miles south of Donalsonville on Georgia Highway 39 in Seminole County.

Harry Marcus Merck, 38, of Rte. 3, Atlanta, died Sunday at Grady Hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by a car Saturday in the 1900 block of Cheshire Bridge Rd., NE, police said.

Patrolman B. L. Anderson said he was told Merck was hit by a north-bound car driven by Dennis B. Hyde, 37, of 4436 Briarcliff Rd., NE. Anderson quoted two witnesses as describing the casualty as unavoidable.

Anderson said charges were lodged against Hyde of violating pedestrian duties-accident and drunk on the street. He added Hyde was charged with violating pedestrian rights.

27TH DEATH HERE

The death was the 27th fatality of the year in Atlanta, compared with 34 for a similar period of last year.

A Stone Mountain youth was fatally injured and four others less seriously hurt when a front tire blowout caused a car to slam into a bridge abutment at Snapfinger Road and Highway 155, DeKalb County police said.

Samuel Howard Parker, 18, of 1792 Hairston Rd., Stone Mountain, died after being admitted to Grady Hospital with chest injuries, Patrolmen W. F. Chester and C. F. Glosson said.

Four others treated at Grady were listed as Philip Andrew Coleman, 16, of 196 Diane Way, SE, lacerations and bruises; Ferrell D. Smith, 18, of 4353 Richard Rd., SE, possible fracture of the left leg; Jerry Kiplinger, 16, of 3545 Dial Heights, Clarkston, chest injuries, and Leroy McMillan, 19, of 96 West Austin Rd., injuries to the arms, legs and back.

Patrolmen said McMillan, who was driving, told them he was traveling south on Snapfinger Road when the blowout caused the machine to swing into the bridge.

Funeral services for Parker will be held at 4 p.m. Monday at the Christian Fellowship Center, Atlanta. The Rev. C. E. Cates will officiate.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker, Stone Mountain; three brothers, Charles S., Frank and Otis Parker, all of Stone Mountain, and three sisters, Mrs. T. D. Lewis, Baltimore, Md., and Kathleen and Charlene Parker, Stone Mountain.

BELIEVED DROWNED

Coleman Barron, 53, of Pinehurst, evidently was drowned Sunday when the car he was driving plunged into a creek on U.S. Highway 41 a mile and a half south of Cordele, the state patrol said.

Investigating troopers said the driver appeared to have been traveling at a high rate of speed and failed to heed a sign.

SKIDS ON CURVE

Troopers L. M. Jones and W. F. Beck said Mrs. Wall, 45, had gone to Macon to purchase a piano for her church and was returning home when the car she was driving began to skid in a curve and was in collision with a truck loaded with hogs.

The truck driver, Mack Benson, 34, of Rte. 1, Milledgeville, suffered chest injuries.

The wreck occurred 19 miles west of Sandersville on Georgia Highway 24, troopers said.

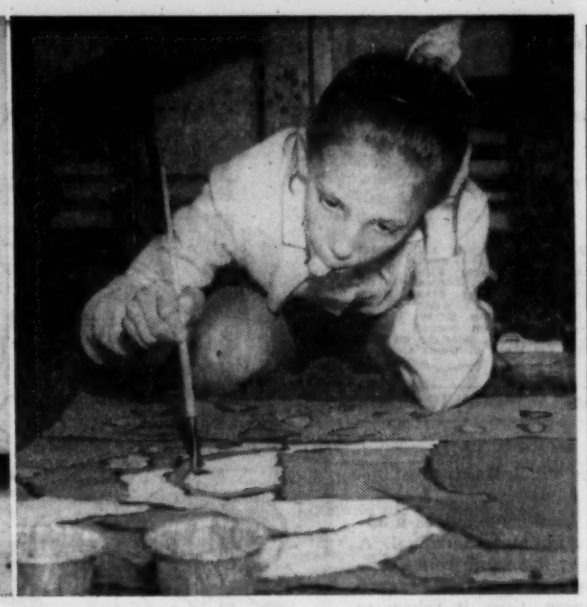

2 FROM POLK KILLED

Two Cedartown women were killed Saturday when the car they occupied collided head-on with another vehicle on U.S. Highway 41, near Tucker road, Bibb County, troopers said. They were Mrs. Hazel Woody and Mrs. Lillian Rogers.

Two Carrollton residents were drowned Saturday when the car they occupied skidded into a creek six and a half miles west of Carrollton on Tyus road, the patrol said. They were Thomas Summerlin Jr., 27, and Colonel Hudson, 25.

Thomas R. Weil, an Air Force man stationed at Robins Air Force Base, was fatally injured when the car he was driving hit an embankment on U.S. Highway 31 nine miles north of Perry, the patrol said. The wreck occurred Friday night.

Children From 6 to 12 Make Good Art Pupils

By MARJORY RUTHERFORD

Youngsters from 6 to 12 are good art students because "they're so uninhibited."

That's the verdict of Mrs. Leone Hamilton, who currently is guiding 11 youngsters into the rainbow-colored world of crayons, canvas, oils, easels and paint brushes through a special art class at Georgia State College.

Originally the class was started for the children of Georgia State faculty members. But other youngsters clamored to get in, too; now there's a waiting list. The current class includes boys and girls representing most of the elementary schools in the Greater Atlanta area.

STUDY PERIODS

Youngsters, just now graduating from crayons to the more exciting medium of water-color, will later spend some study periods manipulating clay. They will also "cut and tear" paper and make a mobile or two.

"Art is fun," reports Teddy McMullen, 8, of 561 Majestic Cir., Avondale Estates, a third-grader at Avondale Elementary School.

Among the most ardent brush-wielders are a brother and sister team, Nancy and Jimmy Bell of 657 Greenview Ave., NE. Fourth and second-graders, respectively, at R. L. Hope School, this pair invariably are early for their art class.

Tyrone Smith, 11, of 889 Custer Ave., SE, a Benteen School pupil, has already discovered that he likes to draw "people best of all."

DIFFERENT VERSIONS

"It's wonderful to see what different versions of one subject are turned out," Mrs. Hamilton said. "These boys and girls have fresh eyes and few preconceptions. It's exciting for me, too!"

As a special concession second-graders are allowed to sprawl on the floor to do their drawing. But the instructor frowns on gooey finger-painting.

"That's for disturbed children," she declared, "and all of these boys and girls are wonderfully well adjusted."

3 Nominated To Head State Lawyer Group

Augusta, Atlanta and Elberton attorneys have been nominated for presidency of the Georgia Bar Assn.

One will be elected successor to Carl Nelson of Dublin as the association's annual convention in Savannah June 26-28.

The nominees, picked at a meeting of the Board of Governors in Decatur, are Wesley Killibrew of Augusta, B. D. Murphy of Atlanta and Fayetteville, and Robert Heard of Elberton.

The governor's also re-nominated Secretary Maurice C. Thomas of Mason and treasurer J. Wilson Parker of Atlanta.

Sen. Richard B. Russell will address the final day's session of the annual convention in Savannah June, 28. He will be introduced by Sen. Herman Talmadge.

Mayor Will Pay Bond Bet With Luncheon for County

Fulton County Commissioner Carlyle Fraser will eat steak Monday while Mayor Hartsfield eats crow.

The mayor will pay off a bet at a luncheon at the Capital City Club at which Fraser, John Still, Fulton County comptroller, and City Controller Earl Landers will be guests.

When the city sold some $15,000,000 worth of bonds in the earlier part of the year, the mayor asked Fraser why the county did not market its $10,350,000 worth of bonds at the same time.

Fraser retorted that the county was going to wait and get a better price.

And that's just what happened. The city sold its issue at a premium which will cut its interest cost to 2.875, while the county's interest under a sale made last week will be slashed to 2.871.

In addition to having the city and county leaders, the mayor also has asked Joe L. Morris, bond adviser for both city and county, to be present at the luncheon. Morris said the difference in the sales could hardly be detected "by the naked eye or a photo-finish photograph." He added that the difference represents an improvement in the bond market since the city's sale.

Watchdog Group Helps Taxpayers, Press Told

The state Senate's "watchdog" committee is effective just by being in operation, even if it is too "broke" to go into individual detailed investigations, a member of the committee said here Sunday.

Sen. William Trotter, LaGrange, appeared on Press Gallery, a television panel show sponsored this week by The Constitution. Appearing with Trotter was another member of the committee, Sen. Carl Sanders, of Richmond County.

"Neither the governor nor the lieutenant governor is in control of the committee," Trotter said. "You might say we are friends of the lieutenant governor rather than being foes of the governor."

"I would rather say we are friends of the people of Georgia," Sanders said. "A time had come to design some vehicle to determine if better operation of government is not possible for the taxpayer's dollar."

Trotter said the committee could not stop the governor from spending surplus funds, but he said he believed the people of the state, through their representatives in the General Assembly had the right to know all about the operations of any government department.

Both men were agreed that no state employe should also serve as a member of the Senate or House. Trotter said he would support a bill to do away with the rotation system in the Senate. (Senate posts are usually rotated among the counties represented in the senatorial district.)

Sanders, who is up for reelection to the Senate from Richmond County, said that he favored a "pay-as-you-go plan" for rural roads. He cited the fact that much of the money from the rural roads bond issue was lying idle in banks because the roads could not be built fast enough. "We have to pay interest on that money," Sanders said.

"There should be a definite formula for the allocation of funds for rural roads," Sanders continued. "These things must be considered in deciding where the roads are to go: The miles of unpaved roads in a county, the number of people who will be affected, and the geographical size of the county."

Trotter said he believed that the "watch-dog" committee would get money for operation after the new fiscal year starts on July 1. "We need some reorganization in our government. Private business is constantly bringing in efficiency experts to help it decide the cheapest and best methods," Trotter said. "We are trying to do that for the state government."

Sanders said that "we have a horse and buggy government. It has not kept abreast of modern changes in operation. We should modernize."

The senators were questioned by William M. Bates, political editor of The Constitution, and Charles Moore, reporter for the paper. Moderator was George Boswell, associate editor.

How long before the atom lights his study lamp?

THE DAY IS COMING, but may be years away, when the atom will have an important part in the production of electric power. At present, producing electricity with nuclear fuel is expensive—many times as expensive as producing it with conventional fuels, such as coal, gas and oil, or with falling water.

To hasten the day of atomic electricity at reasonable cost, the Georgia Power Company is participating in the construction of the developmental Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant near Monroe, Michigan, and our engineers are receiving nuclear reactor training here at home.

The Georgia Power Company is one of more than 100 electric utility companies trying in every way possible to bring you low-cost electricity from the atom as soon as possible.

Let the Taxpayers Assert Themselves

It now appears that June 21 or thereabouts will be set as the date for candidates to qualify for the Sept. 12 Democratic Party primary in the state. Lively contests for a number of important top elective posts seem in the offing.

Georgians also must elect a new General Assembly. In fact, separate county primaries already are being held in a continuation of the basic evil of early elections.

Such primaries, a device of politicians to restrict voter interest and candidate participation, are a costly appendage of our political system. They should be ended.

But in races for other state offices and in those counties such as Fulton wherein the local primary coincides with that of the state, there should be no dearth of issues this year. As pointed out so well in an editorial reprinted on this page from the Vienna News, there are issues and "It's time to do some clean sweeping and not just brushing them under the rug."

Recent revelations about state government have uncovered practices which if not checked will break the back of Georgia taxpayers. The excuse that they did not begin in this administration is all the more reason that a halt be called.

By virtue of huge increases in taxes and hikes in the state's bonded indebtedness, this administration has had more to spend. But because of this fact it has had much, much more to waste. It becomes obvious that unless this is eliminated, tax bills inevitably will go higher and higher.

The next administration and the next General Assembly must check these trends. We believe the people of Georgia are tired of paying ever-increasing tax bills without any effort being made to achieve economy, efficiency and business-like methods of administration. Certainly it is time to make such an objective the prime political issue in the state.

Taxpayers, deluded so often with false promises and demagoguery by politicians out to gain control of the state's political machinery and their funds, had best take a long and searching look at all candidates this year. They have little left to lose except their shirts.

State's Timber Crown Has Lost Some Glitter

Georgia's nationwide leadership in the timber industry is on shaky ground these days.

It recently lost two first place spots to Florida, which forged ahead in seedling production and in tree farm acreage.

Prospects are good for Georgia recapturing the lead in seedlings this year. The state also is making an all-out effort to win a contest in which Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia are participating to develop tree farms.

Timber has developed into a multi-million-dollar industry in this state during recent years. Even so, the potential has by no means been reached and it is disturbing to see Georgia slip behind Florida, if only temporarily, in preparing for the rich harvest ahead.

Passenger Loss Puts Squeeze on Railroads

The New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited has been changed from an extra-fare, nonstop, all-Pullman train into a mixed train of baggage cars, day coaches and sleepers.

For 56 years the Twentieth Century Limited had furnished plush transportation between New York City and Chicago. In 1929 the Century on one day moved 894 passengers east from Chicago, carrying them in seven sections.

By 1958 the fares had dwindled to as few as 80 each way daily. The railroad estimated it was losing $1.50 on each $5 in fare collected.

So the passenger service dwindles on the New York Central and the B&O for the same reason the Central of Georgia was forced to curtail service between Atlanta and Columbus.

Just not enough people riding the trains.

One reason is technological. The best the Twentieth Century could do between New York and Chicago was 16 hours. A plane makes the trip in three hours.

Another reason is the lag on the part of the railroads to improve service, from ticketing to type of accommodations.

A third factor contributing is the rules of the road, imposed by the government and by labor, under which trains must operate.

The Twentieth Century requires a 33-man crew from terminal to terminal. A plane operating over the same route carries a crew of five. If each conveyance carries 80 passengers, then it takes no higher mathematician to see the cost differential.

Regardless of the cause, the trend is there. The railroads must decide whether to continue carrying passengers. The public must decide if it will ride the trains. The latter decision seems to have been made.

It leaves the railroads little choice.

Legislature Could Use More Bill Freemans

The Active Voters of Georgia presented the annual Statesmanship Award to Rep. William (Bill) Freeman at a meeting here last Friday. William Freeman Jr. received the award on behalf of his father, who is ill.

The choice is an excellent one. We can think of no legislator who deserves recognition for statesmanship more than does Rep. Freeman.

Bill Freeman is an outstanding representative and statesman in every sense of the word. Time and again in stormy sessions of the Legislature Rep. Freeman has demonstrated a rugged independence. His refusal to yield to political pressure and expediency has won for him the respect and admiration of all political factions. His good sportsmanship, mettle and sense of humor make him one of the most popular members of the Georgia House.

This splendid recognition of a conscientious and courageous legislator will be applauded throughout the state. It gives us great pleasure to join in the applause and wish for him a speedy recovery from his illness.

Public Again Can Voice Ideas on Local Schools

The second public meeting at which citizens are invited to make suggestions pertaining to the Atlanta school curriculum will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Life of Georgia auditorium.

Sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the session will be a follow-up to one conducted recently by the Board of Education. Time ran out at the latter hearing before the public had opportunity to be heard fully, a situation which should be avoided at the upcoming forum.

Even so, the framework was laid for what should develop into an interesting and constructive airing of opinion Tuesday night.

Further recommendations are in order concerning the eighth grade, admittedly the weakest link in the educational chain.

In addition to exploring the possibilities of beefing up the curriculum in general, special attention should be paid to further ways in which students of exceptional ability can be given opportunities for advanced study.

Although the Atlanta school system as a whole shapes up well and is ably administered, there has been criticism from time to time that certain courses are much too soft and accomplish little.

Public meetings such as the ones being held can be most helpful in formulating improvements. Parents and educators working together can accomplish wonders. The trouble too often has been that parents do not concern themselves sufficiently with the problem.

Building Permits Show City's Determined Spirit

One good reason why Atlanta has not been as hard hit by the business recession as have some other cities is its irrepressible spirit and will to grow.

This is proved once again in figures which show that although the city ranks 23rd among American urban populations, it stands 10th in value of construction authorized this year. According to building inspector William R. Wofford, Atlanta is setting a record in construction for the year with permits issued for more than 35 million dollars' worth of construction in the first four months.

Under present plans, the City of Atlanta itself will be quite busy with construction this year. Mayor Hartsfield says that work will get under way on probably as much as 50 million dollars of civic improvement projects under the bond program in the community.

Atlanta, of course, is vastly important to the whole economy of the state. It is the regional as well as the state capital. Despite obstacles it continues to grow at a rate which taxes the best of its planners and has helped to take up the slack which has affected other areas of the state's economy.

Construction has proved to be a bell ringer for growth and prosperity. It is gratifying that Atlanta still holds its own.

Judge Says There's Too Much 'Meddling' With Court Procedure and Rules Already

Atlanta — Editorial support of agitation for changes in court procedure could do further violence to established rules of procedure in our courts.

We have been led into the wilderness not by lack of reform of court procedure but because of it. Before we commenced to supplant rules grounded in centuries of experience with rules of practice based upon hope rather than experiences, we had simple, easily applied rules designed to streamline pleadings to present to juries only actionable complaints.

Our appellate courts cannot consider 30 per cent of cases currently appealed because established rules have been discarded in a quest for procedureless procedure.

Court dockets are not crowded because of motions and special pleas, but because it takes time to hear witnesses. No rule will telescope an hour-long story by a witness into a 15-minute story.

The great Chief Justice Bleckley said: " . . . Without justice of procedure, courts cannot know, nor be made to know, what justice of substance is, nor which party ought to prevail. As well might a man put out his eyes in order to see better as for a court to stray from justice of procedure in order to administer justice of substance."

We need a quarter - century moratorium on meddling with rules of procedure. Every time the Legislature has met in the past decade it repeals much of the law I have burned the proverbial midnight oil for 40 years to learn.

A. L. HENSON, Judge,
Civil Court of Fulton County.

Fluoridation Critics Considered Wrong

Athens—The biggest drawback on the progress of fluoridation is the ignorance of the real facts. Prejudiced from the start, the objectors to fluoridated water will listen to "they say" and read material that they want to read. If they would take the time to get the true facts about fluoridated water, they would have no cause for objecting to its use.

As stated in a famous Dutch proverb, "Ve get too soon oldt undt too late schmart," and, in the meantime, many children will have decayed teeth that could have been avoided.

'Nuggets Would Trap Sun's Golden Beam'

Atlanta — The project of putting Georgia nuggets to work on the Capitol Dome is a delightful variation of the old theme of bringing to light that which is hidden. Placed atop that imposing feature of Atlanta's skyline, it will not only catch the morning sun's first beam, but add the final touch to Atlanta's place in the sun.

Memories of 1890s Make His Back Ache

Atlanta—The lead item of Leo Aikman's May 5 column made my backache come back unexpectedly. That back and President Cleveland's depression of the 1890's have much in common. Cleveland had come in as president for a second time because Benjamin Harrison, a Republican, had helped the War Between the States veterans of the North "rob the U.S. Treasury" to pay their injured and sickly ones a pension of from six to eight dollars a month.

At the time no grain-grinding mills, either stone-grinding or roller mills, were going up anywhere in the country. So my 60-year-old father, wearing his customary white muslin shirt, white "paper" collar and black bow tie, had no work superintending the installing of grain mill machinery. But the man wasn't given to being idle. So he "bought us" a farm cheap. He decided potatoes would be our big crop for the first year as they were still bringing 50 cents a bushel. To me he sold the idea of helping eighteen dollars' worth to pay for the new public and Sunday school clothing and shoes I had to have for the next winter.

We raised acres of fine potatoes but their price had dropped to the level of other farm products. They sold for 10 cents a bushel in two-bushel burlap bags delivered at the railroad siding three and one-half miles away.

Ever since then I have a hint of backache when I see potatoes. Now I seem to have it since I read the Aikman article's associated idea of the Cleveland depression. If it doesn't let up soon I am going to have a specialist on potato backaches look me over and send the bill to Leo Aikman.

Politicos Yell Persecution But Prosecution's Indicated

Joseph Pulitzer once said, "We are a democracy and there is only one way to get a democracy on its feet in the matter of its individual, its social, its municipal, its state, its national conduct and that is by keeping the public informed about what is going on.

"There is not a crime, there is not a dodge, there is not a trick, there is not a swindle, there is not vice which does not live by secrecy. Get these things out in the open, describe them, attack them, ridicule them in the press and sooner or later public opinion will sweep them away."

The Atlanta newspapers have done just that for the people of Georgia in exposing and documenting thoroughly some corruption in at least four departments of our state government. Efforts to pooh-pooh their findings as "dirty politics" grow more ridiculous in the face of reporters' finding lost road machines, borrowed paving materials never returned or paid for, convict labor illegally used and disguised in overalls with the state being paid not at all or at cut rates and then only AFTER reporters dug up the records of these and other acts of corruption.

It is heartening to taxpayers and citizens generally who believe in laws, moral and otherwise, that the public is becoming aroused. We do not believe the people of the state will be fooled by cries of "persecution" when "prosecution" is definitely indicated. If the communities involved do not demand action of their grand juries, judges, solicitors and courts, then the people will have their opportunity at the polls in September. It's time to do some clean sweeping and not just brushing it under the rug!

Luthersville Is Again on Route

If you are a radio old-timer then you may remember the Ritz Harmony Boys, one of the early orchestral contributions of WSB. The station has survived and thrived. You can't say that for the Ritz combo. But the Sousaphone player and violinist is doing well in Luthersville, Meriwether County. He's Mercer Patterson, president of the combined nondenominational brotherhood which entertained the ladies, as annually, on that cold night last week.

The Yorks, Chambliss's, Colleys, Trammells, Haynes (Hanes) and others were on hand for the food and the fellowship.

Mayor J. E. Mabry was there to assure me his town is picking up population-wise.

Luthersville is the community, you may remember, about which I reported three or four years ago that there hadn't been a baby born within the city limits for two years.

Mayor Mabry says Luthersville is still on the map and the stork has relocated it. The bird with the big bill has visited at least two Luthersville homes within the last year.

By the way, you can see Georgia at its green and grazing best along State 54 from Fayetteville via Sharpsburg and Turin to Luthersville.

Kennedy's Wealth Is Blessing, Curse

WASHINGTON—If a man is born with a silver spoon (gold inlaid) in his mouth, he never gets too far away from the smell of money, the bittersweet odor of affluence. Having a good deal of the ready and the folding probably was determining in all the factors enabling John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts to reach the U.S. Senate.

The same circumstance, however, is presently both a curse and a boon to him in the frankly indelicate pace he is setting for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of columns, to be written at the rate of one a week, on the six urgent men in the U.S. Senate who are Democratic presidential possibilities.

Probably the net result of it is that Sen. Kennedy would be better off just now if he did not have a large and well-advertised bank account—and if his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, did not have an even bigger and better one. But it is also true that without these comforting bulges in the family vault John Kennedy would not have been in position to have any of his present ambitions.

Young Kennedy—on May 29 he will become a venerable old man of 41—has had a prolonged bath of national publicity. Few politicians—and practically no Democratic politicians—have ever been showered with so much genial ink from so many slick-paper magazines.

The fact that almost nothing unpleasant has been spilled upon him in these articles provides an example of the rhythm of good fortune-bad fortune that accompanies Kennedy's march along the presidential trail.

For all this has been most helpful in this sense: It has brought him currently before the public more prominently and in a more kindly way than any other Democratic hopeful for 1960.

But the very fact that his publicity has generally been uncritical has done him anything but a service with other Democratic politicians and many others. They suspect him, soundly or not, of running a vast public relations stable—or of letting his father run one for him.

At a recent Gridiron Club dinner this view was put succinctly in a skit based upon the song, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy." Of Kennedy it was chanted:

"We send all the bills to daddy, 'cause daddy pays them so well."

There is, parenthetically, some irony in this. For Kennedy is by no means the richest member of the Senate. And certain others now prominent in politics—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York on the Democratic side and Nelson Rockefeller on the Republican—are not poignantly short of the long green.

The distinction, if any, is that these men spend it with more restraint and decorum—or so it is usually said or presumed.

It may be, indeed, that association of the Kennedy name with wealth is as great a handicap to the senator as the fact that he is a Catholic. Fair-minded persons could not regard this latter fact as properly a disability. But some of the ablest politicians known to this correspondent—and some of them Catholics, too—believe that it is.

Good points: An excellent political mind—one of the best, at least academically, in the Senate. A strong sense of fairness and tolerance in public issues.

Bad Points: A somewhat spotty voting record that has looked at times unduly expedient. A personal ambition that perhaps has been rising too high and too soon. An inordinate aura of youthfulness that somehow makes him look younger than he is.

Modern Comforts Hailed as Bargains

A man was complaining in my presence about the recent rise in the price of natural gas. I felt no sympathy for him. I don't want the gas company to know I said it but the fact is I would pay several times the price they are now charging. Next to milk in bottles, gas to heat my home is the best bargain of my life.

When my brother John and I were boys, Papa assigned us the job of cutting kindling, "toting" in coal and stovewood. I will carry a scar to my grave where a piece of kindling I was cutting flew up and hit me in the head. When your face is cold from the chilling winter winds, nothing hurts so much as being hit with a piece of kindling.

Today my right shoulder is considerably lower than the left. I do believe it was caused from toting those heavy scuttles of coal. And it seemed we could never get that big stovewood box filled in the kitchen. Splinters would get in my hands and Mama would have to pick them out and then put iodine on them. I still remember the sting of that iodine.

I will say one good word on behalf of Papa, though. He did get up in the morning and make the fire. But when I became a papa I not only had to tote in the coal and wood, I also had to make the fire. And there is nothing I despise more than getting up on a cold morning to make a fire.

Now we live in a steam-heated house. Set the thermostat and the whole business of heating the house is automatic all the winter. No kindling and coal to bring in, no ashes to take out, no cold floors to step out on. I like it. It is amazing how quickly a country boy can become accustomed to the comforts of town living.

Thinking about luxuries, however, the one I put first is milk in bottles. When I was pastor of a country circuit, a farmer in one of my churches told me he was concerned about me being so skinny. He thought I needed to drink more milk and so he gave me a cow. I promptly gave it right back to him. I would not have the finest cow in the world, if I had to keep it.

Gas piped into my home and milk delivered in bottles — thank the Lord for civilization: But isn't it easy to forget how much better things are for us than they used to be? Instead of complaining, let us give thanks to God for His mercies toward us.

Scientists, Strauss Differ on H-Tests

WASHINGTON—Dr. James R. Killian Jr., the president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology who is President Eisenhower's special assistant for science and technology, is apparently playing an important role in the current review of United States disarmament policy.

Before Dr. Killian's appointment to this White House post, Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, was the principal adviser to the President on atomic energy matters. He still holds the title as special assistant to the President in the atomic energy field and is still influential in the review of disarmament policy.

The point is, however, that new scientific advice, much of it more sympathetic than that of Adm. Strauss to an inspected cessation of atomic and hydrogen tests, is now getting through to the President personally via Dr. Killian.

This is not to say Dr. Killian favors a test cessation separate from an inspected ban on the production of fissionable material for weapons purposes.

What is clear, however, is that many scientists whose views were not carrying much weight at the White House six months ago now have a powerful line of communication direct to the President and to Secretary of State Dulles. And this apparently has increased the likelihood that the United States will modify its disarmament policy before any summit meeting.

In this regard, the testimony of Dr. Hans A. Bethe, professor of physics at Cornell University, before the disarmament subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is particularly interesting. He is a member of the President's Science Committee and was one of the principal architects of that committee's study on the feasibility of detecting any illegal atomic explosions that might be set off in the Soviet Union.

In his testimony before the disarmament subcommittee this week, he said he favored a cessation of tests, provided an adequate inspection system were established both in the Soviet Union and Communist China. Also, he expressed the opinion that while such an inspection system might be imperfect, the Soviets would have great difficulty in avoiding detection of illegal explosions, and that a test cessation would be of greater benefit to the United States than to the U.S.S.R.

How the President will finally act remains to be seen. But the possibilities as of the present time are that the views expressed by Dr. Bethe will modify the U.S. disarmament plan.

Justice Douglas Favors Debate Without Horizon

Hits 'Government's Intrusion' On the Privacy of One's Thinking

NEW YORK—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said Sunday night that the country had tended to become insensitive to inroads against basic liberties. He said there was a demand for conformity to general patterns of thought.

Justice Douglas said that the inclination now is "to look for a teacher who is so-called 'safe,' a minister who is 'safe,' a congressman who is 'safe.'" The justice defined as a "safe" person one who does not have unorthodox ideas and is "not a contentious character."

Douglas appeared on "The Mike Wallace Interview" over the ABC television system. The interview was the third in a 13-week series on survival and freedom, produced in association with the Fund for the Republic.

PEOPLE WERE SCARED

He said that after World War II it became the practice to have "public trials" ferreting out subversives. As a result, he said, "people became more and more frightened and, to get a job or to keep a job, wanted to be safe."

Consequently, he declared, there has been "a general contraction of the feeling of ability to speak freely and a general lowering of the standards of free expression that we have enjoyed in early days."

"In Jeffersonian sense of freedom of speech," Douglas said, "there should be no horizon on debate, on talk. People should be tested not by their loyalty, not by beliefs, not by utterances, but by their actions."

He said that the citizens in their beliefs, in their ideas and in their consciences are superior to government.

INTRUSION INTO THINKING

The great abuses in history, he said, occur when the government intrudes into the privacy of a man's thinking, "when a government lays its hand on his shoulder and says you shall not worship this way, you shall not think this thought, you shall not read this book."

He said that he thinks the influences toward suppression of minority views, toward orthodoxy in thinking about public issues have been subconscious. He said there is a tendency among Americans to conform to the picture of the man in collar advertisements, to be safe and sound and not to deviate or depart from an orthodox point of view.

The general inclination, he said, was not to get very far from the official policy on Red China, India, Israel, the Arab world "or what-have-you."

BILL OF RIGHTS STRESSED

"I think that too many students come out of grade school and high school without knowing what the bill of rights is," the justice said. "They don't get it emphasized in their classrooms, in their textbooks. I think that what we need is a great educational program. What we need is a wakening of the people to the values that are in our civilization."

WASHINGTON—Sam Rayburn Worley, a young protege of the Democratic Speaker of the House, and David Eisenhower, the President's grandson, are in the same classroom in grade school.

Recently, young Sam was required to write several words in a spelling exercise. His mother noted that one word was misspelled. Sam explained his teacher had been busy so he had asked the boy behind him how to spell it.

"Who was the boy behind you?" asked his mother.

"David Eisenhower," Sam replied.

"Next time ask a Democrat," his father advised.

Announcers Hit For Predicting Rainy Weekend

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

EPINAL, France (AP)—Thirteen anonymous comrades in arms stand their last formation Monday in a symbolic muster of America's unknown dead of World War II.

Muffled drums that signify death with honor for the fallen soldier will roll through rows of graves as the United States begins selection of the unidentified man who will be the unknown soldier of World War II.

At the military cemetery here, where 5,000 Americans rest in the shelter of the Vosges Mountains, 13 flag-draped coffins await this final military duty. The 31 have been gathered here from U. S. cemeteries scattered across Europe.

A gray-haired Vermonter, Maj. Gen. Edward J. O'Neill, will conduct the last inspection. Himself a veteran of the conflict, he fought on Italy's Anzio Beach.

At 11:08 a.m., the time set in military orders from Washington, O'Neill will place a simple wreath on one casket, thus selecting the body of a man to represent all servicemen who died in the European or African theaters of war. The body is that of one among 2,687 servicemen killed in North Africa or Europe whose identities never were established.

The roll of unknown dead is not yet complete 13 years after Europe's war ended. New graves are still being found in the fields. They are men who died in skirmishes and whose comrades hastily buried them before continuing the business of war.

There is little hope of identifying anyone found now. Neither is there hope of identifying the 13 men in the flag-draped caskets.

After the bare ceremony here, other buglers on the other side of the world will sound taps at the selection of an unknown soldier who died in the Pacific theater in World War II and another killed in the Korean War.

The unknown soldier selected here will travel by Army hearse, Air Force transport plane and Navy warship to the rendezvous point of Norfolk, Va.

There, on May 26, he will be placed beside the casket of his far away comrade from the Pacific. The two men will rest side by side on the guided missile cruiser Canberra.

At the ocean rendezvous, Navy hospital corpsman 1.C. William R. Charette of Ludington, Mich., will select the casket to rest at Arlington National Cemetery alongside the unknown soldier of World War I. The other casket will be committed to the deep in the time-honored burial ceremony of the sea.

The unknown soldier of Korea, brought to the rendezvous point by warship and plane, will then be placed aboard a destroyer with the body of World War II's unknown. The destroyer will take them to Washington.

Trujillo's $17,000 Gift A Surprise to Zsa Zsa

NEW YORK (AP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor said Sunday it was true her new $17,000 chinchilla coat was a gift from Lt. Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., son of the Dominican Republic dictator.

At first report that the coat was a gift from Trujillo, 29, Zsa Zsa flatly denied it.

"Oh, no," she told a newsman. "I paid for it myself. It was a present from me to me. From Zsa Zsa to Zsa Zsa."

But on checking, she said Sunday, she found that Trujillo had paid for the coat without her knowing a thing about it. It was sort of a thank you gift, she said.

"I couldn't be more surprised," exclaimed the thrice-married actress.

Trujillo, who also gave Zsa Zsa a $5,600 car and movie star Kim Novak an $8,400 car, dated both beauties while on medical leave from the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College at Leavenworth, Kan. He is to graduate May 20.

Zsa Zsa described Trujillo, married and father of six children in his native land, as a very generous man . . . very nice and polite.

Zsa Zsa's mother, Jolie Gabor, admitted she wasn't surprised by the gift.

"So what do you expect—for him to send flowers?" she demanded. "To a girl like Zsa Zsa?"

Ohio Brunette, Mother of 3, Is Mrs. America

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Newly crowned Mrs. America rejoiced Sunday in her title and $15,000 in prizes and murmured, "I had no idea this would ever happen to me."

Mrs. Helen Giesse was named the nation's No. 1 homemaker in the 20th annual Mrs. America pageant Saturday night. The slender, 34-year-old brunette from Cleveland's Mayfield Heights suburb was Mrs. Ohio in the rivalry among women from 48 states and the District of Columbia.

She and her husband, William, have three children, Billy, 8, Susan, 4, and Bobby.

Giesse, 38, advertising executive and recently elected Mayfield councilman, congratulated his wife of 12 years with a kiss when her selection was announced.

20-Hour Week Would Cause Mental Ills Among Thousands, Psychoanalyst Warns

By A. H. RASKIN

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

HARRIMAN, N. Y.—A conference on unions was warned Sunday that a shortening of the work week to 20 hours would necessitate thousands of new psychiatrists to deal with nervous breakdowns among workers who did not know what to do with their spare time.

The warning was given by Dr. Erich Fromm, psychoanalyst and author, at the closing session of a three-day meeting of labor, management and public representatives at Arden House. The conference was called by the Fund for the Republic to discuss the role of "Labor in the Free Society."

Dr. Fromm's basic theme was that man was willing to be managed by a network of bureaucracies representing industry, labor, government and the armed forces, provided he retained the "illusion" that he was free and that he was really managing the bureaucracies.

He asserted that neither the bureaucrats nor the followers had any aim, but that each group deluded itself with the thought that the other knew where it was going.

He described our economic system as requiring men who felt independent, yet were willing to be commanded, to fit into the social machine without friction and to be "prompted without aim—except the one to make good, to be on the move, to function, to go ahead."

"We are all eager to save time, yet what do we do with the time we save?" Dr. Fromm asked. "We are embarrassed, and we try to kill it."

He asserted that programs designed to promote "human relations" in factories actually represented programs for manipulating men and "smoothing them out to the point where there is nothing left." He charged that psychologists were "becoming a very dangerous group" by helping to turn men into things. He said they were lending their talents to "manipulating people through slogans and ideas that win popular allegiance because they sound like the Bible, Socrates or Freud."

Dr. Fromm urged that thought be applied to making work more interesting, both industrially and socially. He advised unions to devote more attention to measures to make "men count again," but he cautioned that little headway could be made unless all segments of economic, cultural, political and spiritual life moved forward in an integrated way.

Beaten Body Of Girl, 6, Is Found

EAST HAVEN, Conn. (UP) — The unclothed, badly battered body of Kathy Palumbo, 6, was found Sunday night in a wooded area near her home in the shorefront Momauguin section.

Police said the child had been missing since early afternoon, but the disappearance was not immediately reported because her parents believed she was playing with neighborhood children.

Kathy's 8-year-old companion, Tommy Chandler, who lives nearby discovered his playmate's body while "helping" two policemen search for her.

The body, described as "in a fantastic state of mutilation" was found in a clump of bushes a half-block from the Palumbo home.

Jewish Cemeteries Damaged by Vandals

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Vandals turned over 43 headstones and damaged three burial chapels in a group of Jewish cemeteries Saturday night.

Benjamin Yugar, financial secretary of the Albany Hebrew Tailors' Assn., estimated the damage to a chapel owned by his group at between $15,000 and $20,000.

Also damaged were chapels owned by the Sons of Abraham and the Agudas Achim. The cemeteries are in the town of Guilderland, just west of the city.

Rail Firemen Strike After Canada Cuts

MONTREAL (AP)—Union firemen struck Sunday against the Canadian Pacific Railway to protest a layoff program on oil-fired diesels in yard and freight service.

The second such strike on the CPR in 16 months, the dispute was watched closely as a possible test case for all North American railroads in which firemen are out of the coal-heaving era.

Hours after the strike deadline, the CPR said its trains were moving all along the line.

The walkout by the 3,000-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen began at 6 a.m. across Canada. Picket lines were set up, but no solid picture had yet emerged as to how effective the strike might be. Reports from scattered points said some engineers, switchmen and trainmen were crossing picket lines. In other cases, some engineers were said to be reporting sick. Supervisory personnel manned some trains.

Voting in Greece Shows Pro-West Group in Lead

ATHENS (AP)—Greece elected a Parliament Sunday to serve for the next four years. The pro-Western party of ex-Premier Constantine Karamanlis held a steady lead in counting off returns early Monday.

A Communist - line party, the EDA, showed surprising strength. It ran second in the early returns, but dropped into third place with more than a third of the precincts reported.

The vote, with 3,036 of 8,828 precincts reporting, gave Karamanlis' National Radical Union 459,901 out of a total 1,089,804. The pro-Western Liberals, running second as expected, had 246,416. The Moscow-oriented EDA, the Union of the Democratic Left, was third with 283,363. The center Progressive Agrarian Union drew 35,188. Other votes were scattered.

As the returns piled up, votes for the rightist National Radical Union held steadily at about 40 per cent of the total.

Interior Minister Nicholas Lianopoulos, in charge of the election, said on the basis of returns at midnight that Karamanlis' party should take at least 160 of the 300 seats.

Sources close to the ex-Premier said he himself was confident of winning as many as 180 seats.

The Ministry of National Defense announced only one incident. An EDA member was killed after EDA supporters threw a grenade at a car carrying Radical Union supporters in Ekaterini, a town in Macedonia.

A new election law aimed at eliminating small splinter parties would allow the Radical Union to win an absolute majority in Parliament with as little as 40 per cent of the popular vote.

The Communist party is officially outlawed in Greece but EDA has made no secret of pro-Moscow leanings. It advocates Greek disengagement from Western ties, strongly opposes missile bases in this country and talks of neutrality in the East-West conflict.

PAIN, FEVER, SWELLING IS NATURAL, CAUSE LIES DEEPER

Not many years ago, fevers were thought to be illness in themselves, and people were mainly interested in cooling them. Today, we know that fever is only Nature's bonfire, to burn up poisons in the system, and that the real trouble lies deeper. We also recognize that swellings are really caused by sudden crowds of workman cells and material which Nature has gathered to repair an injury; we know that pain is only Nature's way of warning that something is wrong, within the body. Chiropractic no longer seeks to allay pain alone. It seeks out and corrects the cause of that pain.

Most Persons Support Court, NAACP Rally Told Here

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

"There are more people making resolutions to comply with the law than there are passing resolutions to defy it," said a former official of the National Association for the Advance of Colored People here Sunday.

Daniel E. Byrd, former field secretary of the New Orleans NAACP, made that comment at the fourth anniversary observance of the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools.

Addressing a rally at Big Bethel AME Church sponsored by the Atlanta Ministerial Alliance and the Atlanta Branch of the NAACP, Byrd declared:

"The Supreme Court is not likely to reverse its decision. Americans saw the signs of the times long before Russia launched its Sputniks. They realize they cannot afford to tolerate any further cultural lags because of race."

"If we expect full citizenship," Byrd said, "we will have to tinkle the cash register as well as the ballot box. America will need all the economic strength it can muster if we expect to win the cold war."

"People unable to break with the traditions of yesteryear will finally enslave themselves," he added.

'Get Blanket for Mother's Day,' Dying Son Asked of Red Skelton

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Daddy, will you get mama that red blanket for Mothers Day? I don't suppose they'd let me out of here with this cut on my leg."

Thus did little Richard Skelton die of leukemia Saturday night at the UCLA Medical Center, thinking about his mother.

Comic Red Skelton was standing in Richard's room at home less than an hour after the nine-year-old boy's death from leukemia—a death that had been foreshadowed for more than a year. Richard's toys, a favorite camera and other paraphernalia common to boys were scattered about the room.

"We had asked him if he wanted a party for his birthday on May 20," said Red. "He said no, all he wanted was a cookout with two or three of his friends—so I brought him the Sears, Roebuck catalogue and he picked out a tent and some camping equipment—and the red blanket."

The cut on his leg referred to an incision made for blood transfusions. His veins had been punctured too much with a long series of daily transfusions over past weeks.

Although he was never told of the seriousness of his illness Richard apparently knew death was near. When his sister Valentina, 11, climbed on a footstool to kiss him goodby, he murmured:

"You'd better hurry up."

Minutes later a final hemmorrhage sent him into a coma. That was about 7:30 p.m. His mother, Georgia, said he awakened briefly an hour later and whispered:

"I can't see. Everything is fuzzy."

At 8:35 p.m., he died.

Georgia and Red, steeled against the tragedy for over a year, sat in the hospital room with their dead son for over a half hour quietly weeping. Then they went home.

'I had to sit there and cry," said Georgia, "Richard wouldn't let me cry before. He always chided me if I came in to see him with my eyes red."

Valentina had returned home before her brother died. When the parents returned to the big Bel-Air manse, the family doctor told the girl.

"I wonder what the Big Man looks like," the doctor quoted Valentina. "Richard knows now."

Then she added:

"By the Big Man I mean God."

Skelton told of one last wish the boy had made Saturday.

"The highlight of his life was our audience with the Pope last year, so he asked me if I could get him a crucifix blessed by His Holiness."

Bo Roos, Skelton's longtime business manager, cabled Father Edward Bates, an American priest stationed in the Vatican. A cable came back that the mission was accomplished.

"Richard seemed happy when I told him that the crucifix was on its way by airline. It was wonderful of His Holiness to take the time out of his busy schedule for our boy."

The crucifix was en route over the polar route from Copenhagen as Richard died. Red said it will be entombed with the boy.

By Richard's bed was a little overnight case, his parents had given him for Christmas. Georgia opened it. In it were clean underwear, socks and a toothbrush.

"He packed it himself last week before he went to the hospital," said Mrs. Skelton. "He said, 'Mama, you never know when we'll be leaving on a trip. It's best to be ready.'"

Red cried at that and turned toward the door. Georgia followed and started to turn off the light switch. As she looked around at the toys, the happy pictures on the wall, the little stuffed dog that had been his constant bed companion since he was six, she pulled back her arm.

"No," she said, "I can't turn off that light. I don't want it dark in here, not tonight."

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Detectives said Sunday they would seek an indictment charging robbery by force against a 15-year-old boy and two older companions who were charged with pistol-whipping robbery victims.

Conviction on the charges could carry the death penalty.

Lt. R. F. Jordan and Detective J. H. Barnes identified the 15-year-old as ringleader of the band. They charged the youth severely pistol-whipped two victims and stabbed a third.

The 15-year-old was placed in the hands of juvenile authorities pending Grand Jury action. Detectives said his two companions, listed as Daniel M. Knight, 19, of a Smith street, SE, address, and Robert Jerry Waites, 18, of Woodbine avenue, SE, were held at city jail for suspicion of robbery.

The youth, his peroxided hair clipped in a crew cut, was belligerent at first, detectives related. After being taken into custody, he was quoted:

"You'd like to see me sent up for a while, would you?"

Later, officers said, he apologized for the remark and added: "Sir, I'm just sorry it happened."

Detectives said the 15-year-old was charged with pistol-whipping two men in a robbery April 22 in a fruit stand at 1089 Memorial Dr., SE. They said one, J. R. Biggers, the owner, was knocked to the floor, and an employe, Roy Carter, was struck several blows on the head.

The youth was charged with stabbing Joe Jason, 64, of 463 Metropolitan Pl., SE, during a robbery on May 2 detectives said. They added Jason was accosted on the street and forced behind a school near Metropolitan and Moreland avenues, SE.

The trio also was charged with an attempted robbery May 4 of a fruit stand at 1984 College Ave., NE, officers said.

Detectives said the 15-year-old and Knight were charged with beating and robbing a hotel house officer on April 12. L. E. Parsons, 49, of Union City, an employe of the Biltmore Hotel, said they picked him up at Peachtree and West Peachtree and drove him to the Bouldercrest School in DeKalb County where he was slugged and robbed of $530.

Gilmer May Get Convicts Back Today

Gilmer County may get its convicts back Monday when County Commissioner Cicero Logan comes in to ask for them.

But Corrections Board Chairman C. O. Nixon says he doubts a similar move will be made for Wheeler County.

State prisoners were removed from the Gilmer County camp after the Atlanta Constitution reported irregularities in the use of prison labor there. Gov. Marvin Griffin joined board members at a meeting at Ellijay and indicated the convicts might be returned if corrections were made.

Nixon said he could not say what action the board will take. But he said Gilmer needs the convicts for continued progress on its roads.

The convicts were removed from Wheeler County for similar reasons and Nixon said he is pretty sure the board will not return convicts to that camp. He said one appeal has already been turned down.

The board chairman said he considers the situation in Wheeler County worse than that in Gilmer.

Darting Boy, 2, Hurt, Piles Up 2 Cars Here

Two-year-old Tommy Johnson Jr. Sunday triggered a two-way automobile crash and as result was taken to Grady Hospital with a fractured arm and leg, police said.

Tommy, a Negro, darted out into the street in front of his home at 212 Forest Ave., NE, Patrolmen J. E. Barfield and J. A. Tinsley said.

Patrolmen said Amber Felton, 38, Negro, who resides in a Forest avenue hotel, applied brakes to avoid striking the child. They added Wright Thompson, Negro, of 471 Parkway Dr., NE, who was driving behind Felton, rammed Felton's car in the rear, knocking it against the child.

Thompson was charged with following too close and improper brakes, officers said.

Elsewhere in traffic:

Miss Barbara Jeanette Alls, 21, of 1230 Southeast Main St., College Park, suffered leg injuries in a crash at Stewart and Cleveland avenues, SW, police said.

Ravy O. Weldon, 30, of 16 Delta Pl., NE, suffered possible chest injuries and cuts and bruises early Sunday when the car he was driving struck a street sweeper at DeKalb avenue and Elizabeth street, NE, police said. Patrolmen C. V. Sutton and H. J. Fuller said James C. Fowler, 43, of 1445 McPherson Ave., SE, had stopped the street sweeper to take on water. They added Weldon was charged with striking a fixed object.

Mrs. Indiana Shelton, 82, of 1991 Meadow Ave., SW, was treated at Grady for injuries to the head, knees and arms following a traffic crash at Cleveland Avenue and Sylvan Road, SW, records showed.

Two were injured at Lynch street and Central avenue, police said. Willie L. Stringer, 16, of 1251 Fowler St., NW, suffered abrasions of the hands and knees and Jerry D. Martin, 19, of 1205 Fowler St., had chest injuries.

Two others were hurt when a car skidded on a wet street and struck a utility pole in the 1100 block of West Paces Ferry Rd., NW, officers said. They are L. W. Clanton, 36, of 780 McMillan St., NW, possibly fractured collarbone and leg injuries, and a son, Calvin Lee Clanton, 7, laceration of the forehead.

Boast Fails, Escapee Is Nabbed Here

Police said Sunday a shotgun changed the mind of an escaped convict who had boasted that he "was not going back."

The escapee, Gilmer P. McArthur Jr., 24, was placed in city jail to await delivery back to the Georgia Department of Corrections.

McArthur was one of six prisoners who escaped Saturday from the Macon County prison branch near Montezuma. Five others still at large were identified as J. B. Cook, 29, and James W. Barrentine, 23, of Atlanta; William O. Reagan, 33, of Decatur, and Gerald Christian, 21, and Boyce Christian, 23, of Macon.

McArthur, serving sentences for burglary and forgery, was apprehended in the bedroom of a home on Woodward avenue, SE. Lt. I. A. Thomas and three detectives—B. Compton, C. E. Lyons and G. A. Royal—surrounded the house.

Cabiria's Sordid Theme Skips Objectionable Scenes

The same team is responsible for "Nights of Cabiria," which opened at the Peachtree Art Sunday.

"Cabiria," like the earlier success, is an "art" picture in true sense of the word. Full of subtle shadings, it tells the pathetic story of a "lady of the evening," who, tossed about by life, somehow keeps an illusion or two. Miss Masina, hailed by critics as best tragicomedian on film since Chaplin, is unforgettable as the little street-waif. Two foreign male actors, Amedeo Nazzai and Francois Perier, stand out in a superb cast. This picture, although it deals with an essentially sordid theme, has no objectionable scenes. It is, however, heartbreakingly realistic and not designed for the movie-goer seeking the "happy ending" type of entertainment.

3 Highway Men Tell of Pressure

Report Orders On Store Choice

lends money, he charges no interest.

"I always received my check from Mr. Geiger except when I owed Mr. W. B. Morrison for something I had bought on credit or for money I had borrowed from him," said the former highway employe. He said that when he owed Morrison money, he had to get the check from Morrison at the store.

"Mr. Morrison would have me sign a slip of paper . . . to show that I had received my check," the affidavit continued. "Then he would tell me to sign the check. I would sign it and he would take out any money I owed him and would give me the rest of the money from the check.

FIVE OTHERS

"Five other men, besides me, were employed at the Mount Vernon maintenance shop and I have seen all of them in Mr. Morrison's store on pay day when they owed him money and he had their checks."

One of the state employes said, "Mr. Geiger has told me and the other maintenance shop employes that if we didn't trade at W. B. Morrison's General Store, we would be fired. . . ."

He said that he had received "just about all" of his highway checks from Geiger or Morrison. He added that only on one occasion did Geiger pay him at the maintenance shop. The rest of the time he was paid—either by Morrison or Geiger—at Morrison's store, he said.

The other highway employe swore that "most of the time" he has had to get his check from Morrison.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Geiger took a leave of absence from his state job April 15. He said he wanted to devote more time to his business, the Mount Vernon Sand Co., and added that he would not go back on the state job "if I can make a success of the sand business."

He said he has a letter from Reuben Ray, division engineer at Jesup, saying he can return to work when he is ready.

Morrison, senior member of the Board of Corrections, was appointed to the board almost 10 years ago by Gov. Herman Talmadge. He was reappointed by Gov. Griffin.

"Frankly, I have nothing to hide," Morrison told a reporter. He pointed out that he had twice been elected without opposition to the State House of Representatives and had been elected to the State Senate once, also without opposition.

"OUT OF TOWN"

He said sometimes Geiger had received the highway pay checks late on a Friday or on a Saturday morning and had to "go out of town on his sand business." He said that on these occasions, Geiger left the checks and payroll list with him and he paid the highway employes and had them sign the payroll.

Morrison said, "I've been decent to those boys (highway employes.)" He said that when he cashed their checks he did not always take out all the money they owed him.

Morrison acknowledged that Geiger also paid the employes at his store and he pointed out that Geiger traded at the store.

"MORE BUSINESS"

He denied he had ever told any of the employes they would have to trade more at his store. "Sure, I've said, 'can't you give me a little more business,' which is normal," Morrison said.

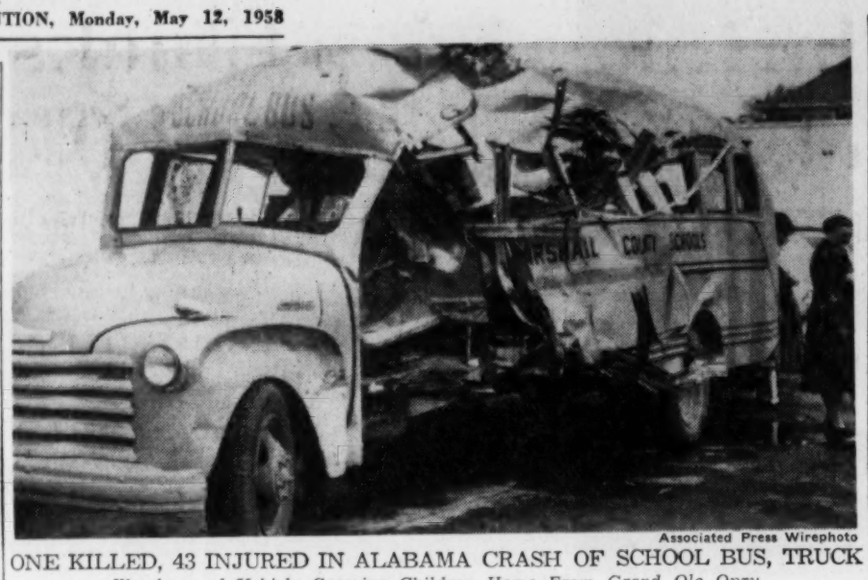

Geiger said he never so much as suggested that the highway employes trade at Morrison's store.

He said he "might have" had the checks at the maintenance shop and told the employes to go to the store and he would pay them there. "But I don't recall it if I did," he said.

Ike's Foreign Aid Bill Goes to House Floor

appeared to be in reasonably good shape to withstand attempts to amend it — even though it will come to the floor of the House under a so-called "open rule" which will make it subject to a broad range of amendments from the full house membership.

As approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the bill authorizes $2,958,000,000 in new money, with $644,192,500 in carryover funds from previous appropriations to conduct the mutual security program through the 1959 fiscal year that starts July 1. A bill providing the actual appropriations will follow later.

Major arguments in debate are expected to center, as they did in the committee, around the administration of the program and around portions of it which give aid to "neutral" and "uncommitted" nations that also receive some help from the Communist bloc.

Attempts will be made to cut much more than $339,000,000 already trimmed by the committee. Attempts will also be made to ban all aid to Poland, Yugoslavia and other nations that some members regard as too friendly to the Soviet Union.

At the moment, the Democratic and Republican leaderships of the House believe they can successfully hold the line against these attempts. However, the House has confounded prophets before.

The fate of the reciprocal trade bill, now in much more serious trouble, is likely to be determined during the week behind the closed doors of the ways and means committee. Its members, confronted by widespread opposition in both houses of Congress, last week served a virtual ultimatum on the administration to assist in writing a compromise measure that could win sufficient support for passage.

The first Administration reaction was to stand pat on the original proposal for a five-year extension with continued broad powers for the President to raise and lower tariffs without further approval by Congress. There are indications now that this first adamant refusal to compromise may be weakening in the face of an equally adamant stance by the leaderships on Capitol Hill.

The leadership position is that the administration bill is totally unacceptable; that the leaders cannot possibly guarantee its passage as it now stands; and that rather than submit to a drive to "gut" the bill, they would much rather let the program die altogether this year and attempt to revive it in the next session of Congress.

Faced with this, the Administration reportedly is considering two compromise amendments. One would permit Congress by a two-thirds vote within a specified period to reinstate tariff commission rulings on proposed tariff changes, in those cases where the commission had been overruled by the President. The President under present law may disregard commission rulings if he deems it necessary.

union walkout last Wednesday night.

(5) The Union said about 6,000 striking union members crowded into Larry Bell Auditorium Sunday afternoon for a two-and-a-half-hour meeting called "to keep our people abreast of developments."

Regarding the approval of a new contract by IAM workers in California, Demcheck declared Sunday afternoon:

"Members of District 727 at Burbank, Calif.," Demcheck said, "have pledged their financial support to District 33."

Comparing the Georgia and California situations, Demcheck said, "The problems in California are not the same as those in Georgia."

"Many of the requests made by our negotiating committee to the company were asking for things to be given to the Georgia Division that have been given to the California Division in their contracts for many years past," he declared.

A Lockheed official, while asserting that the California and Georgia contract offers "were substantially the same financially," emphasized that the "prestrike contract offer" has been withdrawn.

Company and union negotiators "will start from scratch Monday," he said.

The Lockheed official also said that "two C130 Hercules airplanes were delivered to the Air Force Saturday."

"The planes were picked up by Air Force crews and flown en route to delivery to bases in Japan," he added.

Speakers at the mass union rally Sunday afternoon included Demcheck, Grand Lodge representative Jim Witcher, who is assigned to the IAM's Southern Territory, and Ross Matthews of the Texas IAM.

"The membership indicated in no uncertain terms their determination to support their leaders in their efforts to obtain a more equitable working agreement," Demcheck said after the meeting.

Union members "are well aware that the path they elected to travel is difficult," he said. "But they are determined to travel this path until such time as an equitable working agreement may be reached."

Soviet Note Raises U.S. Optimism

study groups on the inspection and control measures that would be needed to police a disarmament agreement.

Of these the President asked particularly that the Russian leader agree to a study group on the inspection necessary to patrol an agreement for the suspension of nuclear arms tests.

Moscow stories Sunday night about the details of the letter to the President said Khrushchev had turned down the proposal for an Arctic inspection zone.

As to the technical disarmament talks, Khrushchev wrote that his country would go along despite "serious doubts."

Since Eisenhower "regards as very important the work of experts in studying technical details pertaining to control over the implementation of an agreement ending nuclear tests, the U.S.S.R., in spite of its serious doubts, is prepared to try that way out as well," said Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

There was no State Department comment on the note. However, diplomatic officials gave out the view that the Krhushchev letter may be a small step forward.

Others went beyond this to speculate that the outlook for a summit conference may have been brightened by the Russian concession. They suggested that there may be a prospect of serious agreement—the condition which this country required before attending a summit conference.

A view was expressed in diplomatic quarters that Khrushchev's concession to the United States, however slight, didn't seem to be the act of a chief of government who was in trouble in the Communist world.

UNIVERSAL SECURITY

He declared the U. S. proposal "does not spring from a desire to insure the interests of universal peace and security, but is designed to gain advantages for the U.S.A." He said a pertinent order by the American government could stop such flights.

The U.S.-sponsored inspection a was endorsed by 10 of the 11 members of the U. N. Security Council, but was vetoed by the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev contended the Security Council "cannot be regarded as an impartial arbiter." He said it had a majority of nations "dependent in one way or another" on the United States. The Kremlin leader added the Council has for that reason ceased to play an important role in the maintenance of international peace and security.

Daughter of U.N. Delegate Knifed by Girl in Bronx

NEW YORK (AP)—The 16-year-old daughter of Iran's chief United Nations delegate, Jalal Abdoh, was attacked with a penknife by another teen-ager in Bronx Park Saturday, police disclosed Sunday.

Police said Frieda was strolling in the park with her sister, Masty, 12, while their parents sat on the grounds of a park restaurant.

Two Negro girls walking behind them tossed a light bulb on the ground and when it exploded, Frieda turned to remonstrate with them. After an exchange of words, one of the Negro girls pulled out a penknife and slashed at the Iranian girl.

Al THOMY

(Sports Editor Jesse Outlar is on vacation.)

The Happy Outcasts

Breathes there a former Pfc. with a soul so dead he has not said to himself, "Judas K-P, how I'd love to direct a baseball at ye olde Sarge's ear."

"It was a dream come true," Taylor Phillips, Esq., Douglasville, chuckled—or was it snickered?—into a St. Louis hotel telephone. "My first start this season, here in St. Louis, and whom should I face but my old Fort McPherson sergeant—one Vinegar Bend Mizell."

Thomy

Before this report could filter through channels to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Sergeants, Phillips impishly drove across his punch line.

"Sure, I hit him, but it was accidental as he stepped into a curve ball while trying to bunt. The ball nicked his foot. I said, 'Excuse me, Bend,' and he said . . . well, it was like old times."

Seriously, though, injected Phillips, don't take the story seriously.

"Don't get the idea I'm the same 'ole fun-loving Taylor,' as some writers described me during my two years with Milwaukee. You get a reputation and it's hard to live down. I'm bearing down, early to bed, in condition, and I've never felt better."

It was early Sunday morning and Chicago Cub left-hander Taylor Phillips had a date with the St. Louis Cardinals in a few hours. Right now he was undefeated, 1-0. Down the Chase Hotel hall resided Sammy Taylor, Esq., Woodruff, S.C., a catcher by trade, and a .280, two-home-run catcher at this very moment.

Phillips and Taylor have a common bond and goal. They're outcasts from the Milwaukee system, given up as bad risks and dispatched to Wrigley Field, supposedly the place where all bad ballplayers go when they pass on.

—Covington Wary of Conversation League

If there was weeping and gnashing of teeth, it was indiscernible over Southern Bell. Pride being the intangible necessity that it is, the young Atlanta Cracker alumni are anxious to prove Milwaukee was off its judgment base when they were voted expendable.

"We got the usual razzing when we played the Braves," snickered Phillips—or was it a chuckle? "The you're-lucky-to-be-pitching-out-there and where'd-you-come-from routines, all in a friendly sort of way, though."

Sammy Taylor dropped by the room and joined the cross-country conversation.

"Don't worry about T-Bone. He's looked great last two times out. Pitched a great game against Milwaukee, and was taken out only because we needed a pinch hitter in the seventh."

Phillips was back on: "The score was tied. That was one I wanted more than any in my life. I couldn't have lost it. As it were, they went on to win in the ninth."

Back to Sammy: "When Wes Covington came to the plate, I gave him the Yogi Berra treatment, jabbering away at him. 'I'm not going to talk to you,' he said, trying to concentrate on the pitcher. I said, 'Well, I'll just talk to you,' and I kept up the chatter.

"I don't know that it worked for he hit a home run next time up."

"But like I said, don't worry about T-Bone. He's in great shape."

Phillips was called back to the phone, but the ebullient left-hander was already there. What was his fighting weight this year?

"Oh, 180. May be little over now since I had dinner with Del Rice and his family last night."

How does that compare with last year?

"Oh, then I was 190 . . . plus."

—That Glow Over Wrigley a Paper Moon?

As you talked with Sammy, you remembered a night flight from Memphis and the happy countenance as a scout predicted a major league future. Then you recalled the Dixie Series . . . a tired catcher, .259 batting average, desperately swinging for hits he couldn't buy. He'd have even tried green stamps had he thought they would have helped.

Some said he had not the arm for advancement in professional baseball. Milwaukee listed him as a lost cause, traded him to the Cubs, then frantically searched for catchers to fill out its farm system.

"It's great to be in the majors," said Sammy, anticipating the question. "The trade is the best thing that's happened to me. Skipper (Bob Scheffing) is an old catcher, first time I've played for a man who was a catcher. He helped me a great deal, taught me to block balls and pepped up my throwing.

"You know, all this talk about my arm; well, three have tried to steal on me and I've thrown out two of them."

Phillips was back: "Sammy has improved 90 per cent. He's really surprised everyone. Hits real sharp, calls a good game."

"You have to," jibed Sammy, "the strike zone is much smaller up here. Umpires? Well, first game I caught the ump—I guess he wanted to set a rookie straight—told me I could talk all I wanted but to keep looking at the pitcher when I did."

Game time was near in St. Louis, and Phillips said their goodbyes. There was a job at hand. Some are saying that glow over Wrigley Field is a paper moon, and the Cubs don't like it.

"We have a fine bunch of boys and they want to win. I think we're a first division club," said Phillips. "Right now I've got to worry about Stan Musial. How do we pitch him? Throw and duck. I've faced him four times and he's hit two home runs . . . far and further."

There was another reason for the hasty departure. Phillips had a gab appointment with his old sergeant. They're really not enemies.

MEMPHIS—Bob Hartman and Paul Cave shot blanks for 16 innings as they fired the Crackers past the Chicks Sunday at Russwood Park, 3-0 and 2-0.

The double portion of goose-eggs served up by lefty Bob and right-hander Paul sent 2,088 paying guests home disgruntled and the Crackers gleefully on their way to Ponce de Leon Park for a long home stand.

The complete-game stints of Hartman and Cave gave Manager Buddy Bates 12 route-going jobs this season. A year ago his mound corps managed only 17 by mid-season.

Hartman, who had pitched only four complete games in three seasons at Beaumont, Wichita and Atlanta, hurled his fourth route-going job in six starts this time around.

The 20-year-old Kenosha, Wis., southpaw, chalking up his first shutout since his classic opener in Nashville's Sulphur Dell in 1957, struck out four batters and walked only three.

He faced only 35 Chicks in all, seven over the minimum, as he outdueled 19-year-old Lefty Bill Prout, whose daddy played with Bates when both were Chicks in 1938.

Cave had virtually all his troubles in the first and second innings when he issued three walks, hit one batter and was tagged for one hit.

Atlanta scored in only two of the 17 innings themselves, getting to Prout for all their first game tallies in the seventh frame and to Ron Jirsa for both second-game counters in the third.

Prout and right-hander Walter Payne, who relieved him in the eighth, let the Crackers down with seven hits in the opener, including a double each by John DeMerit and Bob Uecker.

Jirsa, a 6-4 right-hander, allowed the Crackers only five blows in going the route and losing his third decision against one victory. DeMerit and Dick Phillips rapped a double apiece in this one.

Returning home breathing on league-leading Birmingham's neck, the Crackers will go after Little Rock Monday night with Noel Mickelsen on the mound. He has a 2-3 record.

Hartman, winningest pitcher in the Southern Association, notched his sixth victory against one defeat with a neat seven-hitter in the nine-inning opener.

Cave, in chalking up his second shutout, struggled through early game wildness to post his third triumph in five decisions. He allowed the Chicks only three singles in the seven-inning nightcap.

The pair of hurling gems sent the Crackers home for a 7:45 p.m. Monday opener against Little Rock with a record of six consecutive series successes and four victories in six games on the current bob-tailed road trip.

But both were rubbed out in double plays, one started by DeMerit in center.

Hartman permitted the Chicks only one base runner in the final two frames, issuing a pass to Lee Howell with one out in the eighth. Meeks threw out all three Memphis hitters in the ninth.

The Crackers solved the Prout

Lefty Notches Sixth Victory

magic for their three runs in the seventh. DeMerit led off and drew a free pass. Meeks singled him to third. Reynolds' Texas Leaguer to center broke the scoring ice, Meeks' run making it 1-0.

Riddle's line drive to left sent Meeks to third but became just a force out as Reynolds, thinking the ball would be caught, stayed too close to first base and was forced at second by left-fielder Gip Dickens' throw.

Cave survived a shaky first inning in the nightcap by whiffing switch-hitter Melton to leave the bases saturated with Chicks and no runs in. Walks to Frazier and Dickens, sandwiched around Howell's single, set up the danger-fraught situation.

Cracker guns shot through Jirsa's defenses for a pair of third-frame tallies. Barmes led off with a single, Phillips sent him streaking home with a double to left-center and claimed third on the throw in.

Meeks was safe as Phillips broke for home on his grounder, then scurried back to third safely, also. Reynolds walked, loading the bases.

Cuban Takes 2nd in 12; Shantz Gets Opener, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP)—Camilo Pascual, who had beaten the New York Yankees only once in 12 previous decisions, became the first pitcher to shut out the American League champions Sunday as Washington won the second game of the double-header, 4-0, after losing the opener, 4-3.

The 24-year-old Cuban right-hander permitted the league leaders only five hits as Washington salvaged the final of the four-game series and retained second place 2½ games off the pace. He fanned seven and walked only one. Jim Lemon's leaping catch at the edge of the right-field stands of Mickey Mantle's bid for a home run with two on base in the eighth preserved the shutout. The Senators landed on starter Johnny Kucks for three of their six hits and three runs in the fourth inning and added another tally in the sixth on Neil Chrisley's home run to account for all their runs.

Bob Porterfield Hurls Pittsburgh Into Second

New Buc Wins in 11 Innings, 1-0; Friend, Klu Spark Opener, 10-4

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bob Porterfield, a castoff American Leaguer, pitched Pittsburgh into a second-place tie in the National League race Sunday with a breath-taking 1-0 shutout in 11 innings after the Pirates had defeated Philadelphia, 10-4, in the first game of a double-header.

Simmons pitched even more brilliantly until the deciding 11th when Dick Groat opened on a sacrifice and romped home on R. C. Stevens' single, the sixth hit off the left-hander.

LUMMUS FACES BURTON IN CITY PLAYOFF

By PAUL ATKINSON

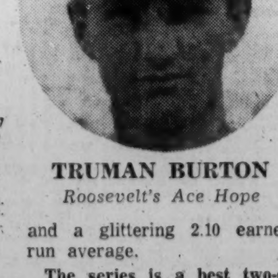

A pair of righthanders with combined won-lost logs of 11-1 have been named to open 3-AAA's showdown baseball series Monday.

Northside coach Wayman Creel indicated Sunday he would use his slim junior rightsider Lamar Lummus (5-1). And Roosevelt's Ray Dean countered by naming large Truman Burton, who carries an unsullied 6-0 report card and a glittering 2.10 earned-run average.

Going for Northside

The series is a best two-of-three set, and will be played on consecutive days. It will be contested in its entirety at Glenn Field, located near the Atlantic Steel Co. All games start at 4 p.m.

Both teams finished with ponderous figures as recommendations. Chief were identical 14-4 sub-regional charts. Then you bring into focus, Northside's .300-plus batting average, and Roosevelt's .295-report.

The teams are identical in other respects. Roosevelt scored 154 runs over the 18-game haul; Northside was two back at 152. In homers, however, Northside had an 18-7 edge because of a beckoning short right-field fence that resembled the Los Angeles Coliseum's famed leftfield barrier in proximity of home plate.

Ben Ferguson, a switch-hitter and highest average Northside swinger at .417, walloped eight homers. Centerfielder Buddy Milton laced four; rightfielder Robert Madison, three; catcher Bobby Kirkland, two; and first base-

St. Louis Escapes, 8-7, 6-5; Musial Needs 2 for 3,000

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Irv Noren and Hobie Landrith delivered game-winning ninth-inning hits for the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday in a double-header sweep over the Chicago Cubs, 8-7 and 6-5.

Landrith stroked a bases-loaded single in the second game which Bobby Thomson fumbled in center, letting the third and winning run cross the plate.

Noren's vicious drive off the right-field screen won the opener after Del Ennis had singled home the tying run.

Musial moved within two hits of the 3,000 hit goal reached by only seven players in baseball history by singling his first three times up in the second.

But 37-year-old Stan the Man was over-anxious and reached for bad pitches his last two times up as he struck out and grounded out. He was 2-for-3 in the opener but the Cubs walked him his last two times up as the crowd of 23,416 booed lustily.

Phil Paine, who pitched the last two innings, was the second game winner in relief of starter Lindy McDaniel.

The Cubs had a 5-1 lead after Walt Moryn's two-run homer in the seventh.

FANGIO TAKES SPIN, COMES OUT SMILING

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—World auto racing champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina escaped injury Sunday when his Dayton Steel-Foundry Special went into a spin coming out of the northeast turn at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The mishap was in approximately the same spot where two crashes have occurred in the past two days of practice runs for the 500-mile race May 30.

Fangio came out grinning and seemed quite jolly. Asked what happened, the champ, who cannot speak English, waved his arms in a pinwheel motion and made a "whoosh" sound.

He wanted to go right out again but track officials told him to change tires, and the operation could not be finished before the track closed for the day.

Witnesses said Fangio was passing two cars at once and apparently went into the turn too low, getting out of the groove. Loose material on the corner apparently caused the spin, they said.

Crandall's Double Trips Redlegs, 7-6

Braves Run Win Streak To Seven, Pad Loop Lead

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Del Crandall's three-run double in the eighth inning gave the Milwaukee Braves a 7-6 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs Sunday and ran the world champions' winning streak to seven games.

The triumph, coupled with the rainout of the San Francisco Giants' game with the Los Angeles Dodgers, increased the Braves' National League lead to a full game.

The Braves took an early 4-0 lead against Johnny Klippstein, but the Redlegs tied the score in the fifth and knocked out Lew Burdette in the process. A run in the top of the eighth then gave the Redlegs a 5-4 lead that lasted until Crandall got his decisive hit.

Turk Lown, who had struck out Crandall in the same situation two innings earlier, got two strikes over this time before the Milwaukee catcher connected. Crandall lined a 2-2 pitch to the fence in left center and all three runs scored easily.

Klippstein handed the Braves a run in the first when, after Johnny Logan singled, he tied a National League record by uncorking three wild pitches. Wes Covington made it 2-0 with a second inning home run.

American Assn. Sets Up Fund To Aid Louisville

CHICAGO (AP)—Ed Doherty, president of the American Assn., said Sunday an emergency fund of $24,000 has been set up to aid the financial plight of the Louisville Colonels baseball team.

At the conclusion of a meeting of agents of all clubs in the triple-A league, Doherty said the emergency fund will be made available to Louisville as needed, providing the Louisville club has on deposit in the Liberty National Bank and Trust Co. of Louisville a minimum of $20,000 on May 15, 1958.

Doherty said Joe Burke, general manager of the Louisville club, will present the league's proposal to his directors at once. Doherty said he believes that Burke has pledges for the greater part of the $20,000 needed.

CONNALLY PREDICTS POWER

Tide's 'Casey' Readies Lefties For Showdown With Auburn

By AL THOMY

Happy Campbell, college baseball's version of Casey Stengel, leans a little to the left as he strolls the Alabama campus these days.

"We've got to fight fire with fire, left-handers with left-handers," he said of this week's Southeastern Conference championship baseball playoff with Auburn.

Bobby Ledford

Result: Auburn, winner of the Eastern Division, will be fired on from the left side when it tangles with the Tide in a two-of-three series at Birmingham's Rickwood Park Wednesday, Thursday and possibly Friday.

Campbell, who has coached 10 championship teams during the 24-year history of SEC baseball, has three southpaws primed for duty against the Eastern champs who go to post with at least three left-handed batters and maybe four.

Overconfidence won't be a Campbell worry.

"Auburn is a fine club," he said Sunday from his Tuscaloosa home. "They're powerful, and have two tough sophomore pitchers in Alan Koch and Red Roberts."

In contrast, Campbell, who has coached 296 victories against 127 defeats since 1935, admits this is a good Alabama team "but not as good as some in the past."

The Tide's shortstop, Jack Kubiszyn (.347), may be college baseball's finest at the position, and sophomore second baseman Legrant Scott is swinging a .348 bat. Unofficial reports have scouts ready to go as high as $40,000 for Kuby's signature.

"Both clubs have power, and we should see a great deal of the long ball," said Connally. "We feel fine about the series, and think we have a real good chance. The boys wanted Alabama since they beat us two out of three during the regular season."

It might be footnoted the two games Alabama won were ones in which Connally used his second line pitchers because Koch and Roberts were needed for important Eastern Division dates. He pitched Koch in the third game and Alan prevailed, 7-3.

Wednesday's opener at Richwood, generously donated by Eddie Glennon of the Birmingham Barons, is expected to find Massey and Roberts (6-1) matching pitches. After that, it's Koch (6-2) vs. either Ledford, Causer or Pete Reaves (3-2).

The Plainsmen have an added incentive. They haven't won an SEC baseball championship since 1937.

Lonoke Liz Grabs Off SE Beagle Derby Stakes

Lonoke Liz, owned by C. G. Hankins of Rock Springs and handled by Mose Hankins, also of Rock Springs, carried off half of the honors in the second day of the Federation's four-day trials.

At Red Oak, where the 15-inch male derbies were run, Brightline Seaman, owned and handled by Joe Bright of Birmingham took first place.

Other Georgia dogs among the male winners: second—Armarmuchee Creek Ham, owned by Bill Scoggins, Rome, and third—Merry Mack Jess, owned by Mrs. J. W. McKenzie, Rome.

A total of 198 dogs were entered in the two-day derby stakes run over the two courses. Federation officials are forecasting some 200 dogs in the two-day Futurity Stakes which begin Monday.

Hardy's Two-Run Single Sets Down White Sox, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Wilson, a 36-year-old right-hander, pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 5-2 triumph over Cleveland after the Indians had won the first game of a double-header, 4-2, on a two-run single by Carroll Hardy.

The split gained the last-place White Sox their first series victory of the season, three games to one. Wilson earned his third win in four decisions but needed ninth inning help from reliefer Gerry Staley.

Jim Rivera's second inning homer started the Sox on their way to their seventh victory of the campaign. The Sox picked up two runs in the fourth when they disposed of starter Bob Kelly and added two more in the fifth at the expense of Dick Tomanek.

Leadoff doubles by Russ Nixon in the seventh and Roger Maris in the eighth led to Cleveland's two runs.

Billy Pierce, a 20-game winner for Chicago the last two seasons, was tagged with his third defeat in as many decisions in the first game.

Pierce was riding a 2-1 lead fashioned on homers by Sherm Lollar and Ron Jackson when he ran into trouble in the seventh inning.

Buster Larrups Ace 285 Yards at W. End

By Bert Prather

Now comes a real he-man hole-in-one. Buster Sappenfield, a young unattached professional, walloped one in on the 285-yard par four No. 4 at West End GC. Used a driver, of course. Looking on with unbelieving eyes were playing partners Forrest Waddle and Andy Marinos.

Bert Prather

There can be no question where Buster got his nickname. He sure can bust that old pellet.

We understand that this was a bit of target practice for this week's Atlanta Open championship, scheduled Friday at East Lake Country Club.

Young Charlie Hill, whose smooth swing has prompted some veteran observers to predict a bright future for him in golf, is new champion at Peachtree Golf Club. The first junior ever to wear the crown.

Charlie won the crown with an impressive 8 and 7 victory over former State Amateur champion Charley Black Jr. The Marist athlete held a 5-up lead over his veteran opponent at end of Saturday's 18, posting a 79 from the blue, or championship tees.

He was even par through the 11 holes played Sunday.

In other flights, George Henderson tripped Paul Fox, 2 and 1 (first); Ralph Paris defeated Pete Peterson, 2-up (third), Julian Harrison edged Henry Grady, 1-up (fourth), and Billy Appleby trimmed Ed Dorsey, 2 and 1, for fifth flight honors.

The junior reign came to an end at Standard Town and Country Club when Jay Sarno succeeded Jerry Greenbaum as the club's champ for '58. Jay downed Herschell Hurwitz for the title Sunday, winning by a 2-up margin. He had previously eliminated junior aces Joe Segal and Greenbaum.

Lummus Duels T. Burton

man John Ferguson, one. Lefty-flailing Dickie Howington had three for Roosevelt; David Sewell, two; and one apiece by Johnny Burton and Jerry Manders.

"This is a good-hitting team," appraised Roosevelt coach Ray Dean Sunday. "But it doesn't have a lot of power. The kids go for that base hit, and everyone of 'em can get one."

Dean mentioned bat marks. Chief is Jerry Manders' .476, possibly the best in the city. Second is a lusty .463 by pitcher Truman Burton. Howington leads in runs-batted-in with 24; T. Burton has 18 and Manders, 17.

In a series as short as this, pitching is a prime prerequisite. Neither squad is overburdened here, but Roosevelt must be given a slight edge because of more experience. Lummus is a B team graduate; ditto for freshman Dick Rositer, who'll go in the second game for Northside.

On the other hand, two Northside players, second baseman Stan Gann and John Ferguson are around for their fourth consecutive city play-offs, and it's No. 3 for Ben Ferguson. Creel, in three previous duels with Fulton, is 2-1, the last two championships in a row.

Orioles Bomb Red Sox In Two Games, 3-2, 4-0

BALTIMORE (AP) — The surging Baltimore Orioles backed up their usual good pitching with an unusual display of power Sunday to sweep a doubleheader from the Boston Red Sox, 3-2 and 4-0.

Arnold Portocarrero and George Zuverink combined to hurl a two-hitter in the rain-interrupted second game after Gus Triandos won the opener with a bases-empty home run in the eighth inning.

Bob Nieman also homered for Baltimore in the first game, while Billy Gardner and Jim Marshall hit round trippers in the second contest. Dick Gernert homered for Boston in the first game. All came with the bases empty.

The twin victories moved the Orioles to within a half game of second-place Washington in the American League. Baltimore has won six of its last seven games and showed an 8-4 mark on the home stand which ended Sunday.

The Orioles pounded Willard Nixon for eight hits in 2 1-3 innings in the second game and handed the Boston right-hander his fourth straight defeat.

Billy O'Dell, who retired the last six batters after relieving Loes in the eighth, picked up the victory.

Ware, Adams Win Peach Blossom Play

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

MACON—If they had had a band around the terrace of the Idle Hour Country Club during Peach Blossom tournament presentations Sunday, it no doubt would have struck up, "Glory, Glory to Old Georgia."

For stepping up to get the two big silver services which went to the championship pair in this best-ball, match play event were youthful Bulldog golfing stalwarts Cobby Ware of Augusta and Davis Adams of the host club.

Cobby Ware

Davis Adams

Cobby and Davis, who play three and four on the Georgia links combine, grabbed the big crown by whipping majors Harley Williams and George Sirany of Robins Air Force Base, 5 and 4, in the 18-hole finale Sunday afternoon.

They had reached the payoff round by ousting another Bulldog twosome, Frank Eldridge of Valdosta and John Brim Jr. of Columbus, 5 and 4, in Sunday morning's semis.

The majors earned their shot at the collegians by whipping defending champions Carling Schatzman of New Orleans and lefty Alfred Sams of Macon, 3 and 2.

The latter victory came as somewhat of a shocker since the Sams-Schatzman combo had won three of the past four Peach Blossoms and was runner-up in the other. They had been established as favorites to repeat since they had both grown up on Idle Hour and are familiar with its terrain.

Ware, who is 19, and Adams, just short of 21, also toted home medalist silver. They nailed down top qualifying spots last Wednesday with a 65 over the exceptionally exacting 35-35—70 layout.

The victory was all the sweeter since they were turned back in the title round last year by Sams and Schatzman, losing on the 18th hole. And here is more good news for Howell Hollis, Georgia's popular golf coach.

University of Georgia students Larry Movsovitz of Savannah and Buster Jenkins of Atlanta captured first flight honors, downing Atlanta's Gene Dahlbender Jr. and Brunswick's Bill Herndon, 4 and 3.

Larry and Buster, both transfers, will be eligible for Bulldog varsity service next year.

The new champs both got down in three for birdies at 10 to make it 5-up before the Williams-Sirany team won their first hole. Williams took 11 with a five-foot birdie putt. They lost this advantage right back to Adams' deuce on the short 12, but came back to take 13 on Sirany's bird from six feet.

CRACKER DIARY

COTTIER 'ORIGINALS' NOW SHOWING AT SECOND BASE

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

MEMPHIS—The Crackers should draw no small number of art lovers to Ponce de Leon Park this summer.

There won't be any sign stuck on second base saying, "Quiet, artist at work." But there should be, even if the real lovers of the baseball arts will recognize genius without any sign to herald it.

Charlie Roberts

We won't be so bold as to announce that Charles K. (Chuck) Cottier is the greatest artist to ply his trade at the Atlanta keystone, because a young master named Davey Williams once toiled at the same stand.

We will, however, be brash enough to believe that no craftsman other than Williams ever turned out so much fancy glove-work as 22-year-old Mr. Cottier is likely to this summer.

Of late Mr. Cottier has added some really classy woodwork to his line of goods. And his profits from that "ash-craft" will likely make it possible for him to sell his remarkable glovework to some big league patrons of such arts.

It's inappropriate to hawk such artistic wares in the manner of a side show barker, "Come one, come all and see this young man do his unbelievable feats of magic at second base."

But so many folks are staying away from the ball parks these days that we're afraid some real art lover will miss a great opportunity unless a bit of such crude advertising is indulged in to attract his attention to the product.

It isn't just every year that one gets to see an artist like Mr. Cottier at work. M. Hubert Bates, who isn't yet certain about the caliber of that woodwork, is effusive in regards to the glovework.

Ask the Cracker manager about it in comparison to the brand peddled in the major leagues, and he'll vow, "Oh, I suspect Chuck's glovework compares favorably with anyone's—anywhere."

PREDICTION OF WEEK—That Dick Phillips and Cottier will be recognized as the Southern's finest keystone combination before the season is over.

DIAMOND DUST—Little Rock's R. C. Otey, who'll face the Crackers Monday night at Poncey, has hit only three homers in 10 years as a Traveler—two at Mobile, one at Birmingham. But his bat has been pure poison in the clutch to Atlanta and Memphis. . . . Little Rock Pilot Les Peden believes, and Bates agrees with him, that he has the loop's finest mound relief corps in Dutch Romberger, Bob Spicer, Jim Miller and Bob Schwarzkoff. . . . Ted Wills, Chattanooga southpaw, halted the hitting streak of Mobile's Andy Frazier at 16 straight games. It took a righthander, the Travs' Bob Davis, to halt Sammy Meeks' skein at 19. Meeks hit four of his five homers off lefties.

Dick Stuart, talk-a-lot, hit-a-lot Pittsburgh farm boy, plowed into PCL pitching for 14 hits in 30 trips—including two homers—in Salt Lake City's first home stand. Tony Bartirome, 1957 Little Rock first sacker whom Stuart beat out of his SLC job, is off to a .357 bat start for 1956 Crax pilot Clyde King at Columbus. . . . Al Lary stopped Sacramento for Portland, 7-1, with a 7-hitter. . . . Jim Pyburn is belting .355 for Louisville. . . . Atlantan Larry Osborne's hopes of returning to the Charleston, W. Va., lineup were shattered by a re-examination of his right arm, fractured when nicked by a pitch April 22. Doctors put it back in a cast, and he'll be out three more weeks.

Newnanite Don Lassetter's third homer, a two-run blast, gave Rochester a 4-2 victory over Richmond. . . . Tim Thompson's great break-in play at Toronto is what probably made Ebba St. Claire expendable enough for the Crackers to get him on option. . . . Ex-Trav George Brunet, now at Buffalo, is a two-time papa. New son is named Jeffrey. . . . Art Dunham, sold to Dallas by Atlanta, has logged little playing time. First a pulled muscle, then a virus infection. . . . Chattanooga's recent 5-1 victory over Memphis marked the 16th time in 21 years the Lookouts won on Joe Engel's "Knot-Hole Gang" night. Some 3,100 youngsters were on hand. . . . Dixie Upright, ex-Southern Leaguer with Amarillo, had seven hits in 12 trips and six RBIs in three games against Albuquerque.

EX-CRACKER DEPT.—Dick Sinovic leads Texas League hitters at .536 for Austin. Nat Peeples is sixth at .357. . . . Omaha's Ev Joyner is second in the AA at .367. . . . Vic Rehm is 3-1 for Wichita and among top AA hurlers. . . . Mgr. Roy Hartsfield of Des Moines in the Western League was thumbed out of games twice in six days, but shortly after led his team out of a batting slump with two doubles and a single. . . . John Stokoe lost his 4th decision at Jacksonville on an 11th inning homer by Knoxville's Ken Tippery. . . . Dale Hendrickson is 2-0 at Austin and blanked Victoria on four hits, 7-0. . . . Stan Hollmig's homer on the first pitch in the 10th beat Victoria for San Antonio. . . . George Trautman ordered shortstop Jack Caro returned to Ft. Worth by Richmond. His options had been exhausted.

MORE EX-CRACKERS—Earl Hersh went hitless 20 straight times before homering, Wichita's only hit in a 7-2 loss to St. Paul. . . . Minneapolis pilot Gene Mauch is becoming an expert "juggler." He had first baseman Frank Kellert and keystoner Harry Malmberg switch places to defend against a Wichita bunt. . . . Jack Dittmer, now of Phoenix, suffered a torn leg muscle at San Diego, forcing him out of action. . . . Toronto Mgr. Dixie Walker said his team's trip to Havana was "without incident." But Dixie reported getting nervous because of "an auto following us with a man sitting in the front seat holding a machine gun." It developed this was a precaution of Pres. Batista "for our protection."

DRUIDS' HARPOLE EXCEPTED

Clocks Say Georgia Preppers Are Behind Times of Alabama

By PAUL ATKINSON

It would appear that the trophy sitting in Tuscaloosa, Ala., emblematic of track and field supremacy between Alabama and Georgia will stay there for another year. The cold figures say so.

Both states qualified their entries for the inter-state meet at Birmingham Saturday night. And in a comparison, 'Bama had eight best winning times and distances; Georgia, six. That's about equal to the situation last year when Georgia lost, 70-56.

An individual by the name of Corky Frost from Emma Sansom in Gadsden is the most devastating Alabaman. He qualified as winner in three events, and was second in a fourth.

His times of :10.1 in the 100, :20.2 in the 180 low hurdles, and distance of 23 ft., 1¼ in., in the broad jump were best. And he was second in the 120 high hurdles with a :15.6 clocking.

Georgia has a stout competitor in Druid Hills' Jimmy Harpole, the quick hurdler. His times in both the 120 highs and 180 lows topped anything 'Bama or Georgia could produce. He had a :14.9 in the 120s, and a :19.7 in the 180s. Alabama's best times were a :20.2 in the 180 lows by Frost; a :15.5 in the 120 highs by Harold Warren of Alexandria.

North Whitfield's Gary Ray, who has done a 9.9 100, breezed to a 10 flat in the century Saturday, and the best 'Bama could do was a 10.1 by Frost. Westminister's Ted Mealor raced to a 51.1 in the 440, topping a 52.0, comparatively speaking, by Harry Littleton of Gadsden.

Cairo's Mark Carr, in going 12 ft., 11⅝ in., for a new state pole vault record, far surpassed the 12 feet even mark hung up by Lanier's Tim Edney and Shades Valley's Wayne Richard.

Mary Persons' Fred Whittemore was the other Georgian who outdid 'Bama efforts. He put the shot 53 ft., 8 in. A 47-foot heave by Enterprise's Jerry Hayes was the best Alabama could do.

Murphy High School of Mobile had the best 440 and mile relay times. Druid Hills' 440 clocking of 44.5 was topped by Murphy's 44.3; North Fulton's mile timing of 3:31.3 was bettered by Murphy's 3:29.8.

Elsewhere, Bama got a 22.6 effort in the 220 from Gadsden's Ronald Burke (Georgia's best—Mealor, Westminster, 23.0); a 1:59.8 from Joe Carr of Gadsden in the 880 (Georgia—Bill Dozier, Columbus, 2:02.2); a 4:37.6 in the mile run from Larry Swindle of Russellville (Georgia—Raymond Evans, Quitman, 4:41.8); a 6 ft., 1¾ in., high jump from Tallahassee's Frank Vines (Georgia—Marshall Tanner, Terrell County, 5 ft., 11 in.); a 158 ft., ½ in. discus heave from Dave Costner of Shades Valley (Georgia—Jimmy Langford, Chamblee, 144 ft., 8¼ in.); and Frost's 23 ft., 1¼ in. broad jump (Georgia—L. B. Stanford, Brown, 21 ft., 11½ in.).

Piedmont's McAllister Muffles Boulder Bats

These were the attention grabbers in Sunday Amateur play.

McAllister blanked Boulder Crest, 4-0, on four hits for Piedmont Park and still hasn't yielded an earned run in 27 innings this year. And he's only given up one unearned run over the route that includes 3 victories, 39 strikeouts, 15 hits and 7 walks.

Johnson swatted a pair of homers, triple and double to tie Jackson Loan's (11-5 winner over Crook's Foodtown) Kanavage (triple, two doubles) for the most runs-batted-in of the day (5).

Cassell had the most hits, 5, including a homer as Shurbutt received three-hit pitching defense from Bud Ausborne and Hubert Scott.

Tarleton, the ex-Georgia Bulldog, homered and singled all of Lakewood Cards' runs across in 3-1 pelting of East Point Cubs.

Pitcher Aiken watched a seven-run lead evaporate in Atlanta Paper's seventh inning, then broke the stalemate in the ninth with a triple that gave Tucker Cardinals an 11-10 decision.

Welcome All lefthander Ramsey gave up the fewest hits of the day (2) while fanning 15 (another best) in an 11-2 shuffle past College Park.

Altogether, 11 homers were hit in Sunday play. Others hitting for the circuit were Norcoss' Ray Garmon, Bolton's Jim Scott, Duluth's John McGeady, Smyrna's Don Edwards, Shurbutt's Jackie Davis, Fairburn VFW's Gerald Barge and Bethel's Joe Rogers.

In other contests, Norcoss bested Bolton, 5-2; Billy Etheridge's three doubles backed up McGeady's homer as Duluth blistered Doraville, 12-1; Wayne Lisle and Dan Mauldin collaborated for half of Valentine Motors' 10 hits that disheveled Northside, 9-5.

Billy Joe Adams fanned 10 and whacked a couple of hits for Buckhead Bears that cut up Tucker Merchants, 6-2; Turin's Bobby Adcock parleyed two doubles into two RBIs that helped in the 6-1 skip past Smyrna.

Barge also had a double and single to plate four Fairburnites in an 11-1 walloping of Cascade Heights and Simmons Service's Pick Whaley fanned 13 in eight-hitting Bethel, 5-4.

Barons Gain Split, Keep Southern Lead

Travelers Take Opener, 7-6; Birmingham Rallies, 9-6

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock Travelers scored two runs in the ninth inning of the first game here Sunday to split a Southern Association doubleheader with Birmingham. The Travs won the opener, 7-6, while the Barons took the nightcap, 9-6.

The split gave Birmingham the series.

Birmingham blew a 6-2 lead in the opener when young righthander Dave Reed was banged around for three runs in the eighth. He was replaced by the veteran Harry Byrd who sustained the loss when Trav center fielder Charley Secrest hit a bases-loaded single, driving in two runs in the ninth.

In the second game, Jim Raugh had pitched to a 9-1 margin when he got in trouble in the sixth inning. The Travs scored five runs before Byrd made his second appearance of the afternoon and preserved Raugh's victory.

Boros Wins On Final 71

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., rammed down a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole Sunday to stave off a race horse finish by Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla., and win the $20,000 Hot Springs Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole total of 273.

Julius Boros, 70-64-68-71—273, $2,800; Cary Middlecoff, 72-66-69-67—274, $1,900; Don January, 72-69-67-67—275, $1,300; Bob Rosburg, 67-69-70-69—275, $1,300; Ted Kroll, 70-71-68-69—278, $1,000; Bo Winger, 70-69-70-69—278, $1,000; Gay Brewer Jr., 71-68-72-67—278, $1,000; Ernie Vossler, 72-67-69-71—279, $850; Art Wall Jr., 72-69-71-68—280, $732.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain, Stops Itching as it Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

POLITICAL NOTEBOOK

Storm Signs Indicate '60 North-South Clash

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

Although the 1960 Democratic National Convention is still two years off, storm signals warning of another critical North-South clash are being hoisted in many quarters.

Fresh signs of coming intra-party troubles were seen in Georgia and Alabama last week.

William M. Bates

Here in Georgia, a rules-drafting panel of the Democratic State Committee recommended that in the future members of county executive committees not be required to pledge themselves to support the presidential ticket of the national Democratic Party.

The recommended change in itself is not too significant; it was a sidelight of the panel's larger task of drafting rules for the September primary in which a new governor will be nominated.

But the action does point up the determination of state party leaders to declare absolute independence of the national party organization.

A far more significant development occurred without too much fan-fare during last winter's session of the General Assembly. A law was passed that in effect freed the state's Democratic presidential electors in 1960 of any obligation—moral or legal—to vote for the national party's presidential ticket. The electors can, if the state party organization so decides, cast their votes for a favorite son candidate or for a third party, Southern Democratic contender.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS

The law was passed with only a few dissenting votes in both houses of the Legislature and with no appreciable opposition. Yet an identical law passed in advance of the 1952 presidential election and which subsequently expired triggered a brass-knucks battle in the Assembly.

From Alabama last week came other evidence that states' rights-minded Democrats are gathering strength.

In state-wide balloting for members of Alabama's Democratic Committee, candidates pledged to repeal a loyalty pledge to the national party apparently won control of the 72-man committee for the first time since 1950.

DIXIECRAT DESCENDANTS

The antiloyalty oath candidates are direct descendants of the "Dixiecrats" who bolted the Democratic Party and kept President Truman's name off the ballot in Alabama in the 1948 elections.

The present Alabama Democratic chairman, Judge Roy Mayhall, is quoted as saying repeal of the loyalty oath would "destroy" the Democratic Party in that state.

What the conservative Democratic leaders in Georgia, Alabama and some other "deep South" states hope to accomplish is to block the nomination of a liberal presidential candidate and prevent the adoption of a strong civil rights platform. They hope to do this by holding out the threat of a Southern bolt if the liberals take full command of the 1960 convention.

WELCOME REVOLT

National Democratic leaders are fully aware of the possibility of a third party rebellion in the South in the next election. But as of now, they don't appear to be concerned about it. Some, in fact, claim they would welcome a Dixie bolt.

Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said in Washington a few days ago that the party in 1960 will take its "most liberal position" since early New Deal days. He said it was "entirely possible" that conservative Southerners would refuse to support the party.

The South's strategy at the 1960 convention may be to rally behind a candidate of its own in hopes of forcing a compromise with the Northern liberals on nominees and platform. This has been tried, with some success, before.

TALMADGE OR RUSSELL

If there is a Southern presidential candidate at the 1960 convention it may well be Talmadge or Russell of Georgia. Talmadge has already been suggested as a candidate by Roy V. Harris of Augusta, president of the States' Rights Council.

The North-South division within the Democratic Party goes back many years. But except for 1948, the differences have been patched up sufficiently to prevent a third party bolt.

But sooner or later the Northern liberals and the Southern conservatives are likely to reach a parting of the ways.

And it could be in 1960.

Cerebral Palsy Pupils Discover Joy by Doing

By FRANK WELLS

"They have found out that they are not alone in their affliction," Mrs. Agnes Seymour, administrator of the school, said. "They have found out that they can learn to do things that normal people do, to a certain extent, and they are just naturally happy children."

Charles Tabb, who teaches vocational training at the school, agreed with Mrs. Seymour. "It is heart-warming to see the pure pleasure of doing reflected in their faces when they make something useful in the shop."

TRIPS TO SCHOOL

Charles Powell, 15, son of Mrs. Harold Eskes, 2440 Baker Rd., NW, has just achieved a great personal victory in his trips to the school. He rides the bus there and back, and travels by himself.

"I went downtown the other day by myself, too," Charles said, obviously proud of his accomplishment.

Charles was making a leather change purse. He was asked what he was going to do with it.

"Why, I'm going to put money in it that I make for myself," Charles proudly answered. "I can cut grass now, and I'm going to mow our lawn and the neighbors."

Mrs. Seymour explained that the students were just as bright mentally as normal children. Their brain damage, which can happen to anyone at any time, is confined to the locomotive centers of the brain. The children must receive training which enables their conscious minds to take over the job done by the sub-conscious in normal people.

"Formerly, before our school was set up in 1950, children with cerebral palsy didn't have much of a chance of taking any sort of place in society," Mrs. Seymour said. "They were more or less kept isolated, and some people thought that they did not have normal intelligence. But you can see for yourself how bright these children are."

SPECIAL EDITION

The school is supported by an annual "Old Newspaper Boys" day, when members of the Variety Club sponsor a sale of a special edition of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution. The sale this year is set for Friday, and a goal of $100,000 has been set.

Arthur "Skeeter" Faulkner, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faulkner, College Park, was worried about getting his trousers dirty when asked to kneel on the greenhouse floor for a picture.

"You be sure and let my mother know that you made me do this," Skeeter said. "She doesn't like for me to get my pants dirty."

Fight on Medical Society Tax Likely

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Rulings by three Fulton County officials that Fulton County Medical Society property cannot be exempted from a $3,159.71 tax bill may result in a court case to decide which local non-profit organizations are tax exempt.

Possibility of the court test arose from disapproval by Tax Commissioner Standish Thompson, who acted on advice of County Attorney Harold Sheats and auditor William J. Carter, of a tax release on the society's property at 875 W. Peachtree, NW.

The Joint Board of Tax Assessors had approved the total release on March 24 on grounds the society "is a non-profit agency."

Thompson, in letters to Dr. Thomas J. Anderson, society secretary, had said he felt the organization's property was taxable. Dr. Anderson said in a letter to Thompson in February that "we are still of the opinion that we are exempt from taxes, as we have been for the last 105 years. . . ."

Function of the society is "medical education for its members and the public at large," Dr. Anderson's letter stated.

Sheats advised Thompson that "this society is not exempt because its membership is related to a group, whereas the law provides that institutions of purely public charity are exempt."

"The easiest method to settle it once and for all is to levy the fi. fa. in question and have the Fulton County Medical Society to enjoin the fi. fa.," Sheats added.

Effect of this "will be wholesome from the standpoint of furnishing a guide for other institutions of a charitable nature," Sheats said.

Although only one year of taxes for 1957 is in question in the fi. fa., Carter, noted that a "brief examination of records" showed that the society's property "has in the past been considered exempt" and had not been assessed by the assessors until 1957, when it was assessed at $152,275.

Should the property be held taxable, then it should be assessed for all back taxes not barred by the statute of limitations, Carter suggested. This would mean the society could be billed for seven years of taxes, or about $25,000.

The auditor noted that state laws say that exemptions "shall only apply to such colleges, non-profit hospitals, incorporated academies or other seminaries of learning as are open to the general public." From that, he said, "it would appear that the property would not be exempt."

Science Awards

Three Atlanta students have won $50 U.S. bonds for their entries in the National Science Achievement Award Program, sponsored by the American Society for Metals. They are: Mike Hosford and Patricia Rhoads, ninth-grade students at Northside High School, and Anne Minkin, a 10th grade student at Grady High School.

God Cares About Even The Trivial

QUESTION: How can I have faith that God will care about the comparatively trivial problems?—W. J.

ANSWER: One of the striking truths in the teachings of Jesus is that God is concerned about, and cares for the "little things." He said: "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? And one of them shall not fall to the ground without your Father. But the very hairs of your head are numbered. Fear ye not therefore, YE ARE OF MORE VALUE THAN MANY SPARROWS."

His eye is on the sparrows, and He keeps record of the number of the hairs of your head. It is difficult to grasp the ability of an Infinite God to be interested in our trivial problems. It is reasonable to believe that God, Who was concerned enough to send His Son to redeem us, is interested in the little burdens and cares that distress us. Just as an affectionate parent is interested in every little detail of his child, just so, only in greater measure, God cares for us.

Transit System To Explain Plan For Avondale

An Atlanta Transit System representative will explain a proposed plan for restoring midday and Saturday bus service to Avondale, Belvedere and Peachcrest sections Monday.

The plan will be given at the city council meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Avondale Estate City Hall. The meeting will be open to the public.

The proposed plan for improve transit service must be "unde written" by residents of the area through the sale of specia "passes," said Mrs. Peyton Lingle of the Avondale Woman's Club, the group that is pushing for the improved service.

for Georgia State Day . . . and can you imagine! I found that the clothes I bought at Rich's were exactly the same clothes that were the sensation of the World's Fair!

Customers of the South have long ago learned that shopping in Rich's is as exciting as shopping the markets of the world . . . such newsworthy selections as these in the Vogue Magazine show of the most outstanding American Fashions.

These are the hit of the Fair! They're at Rich's . . . as are many others . . . in fact, it seems as though

Cashmere Coat In 'Season' Now

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER

Now's the time to buy your cashmere coat.

Hold it! Don't bombard the weatherman and don't begin doubting your sanity. A cold front isn't moving in; and yes, summer is coming. And even though you may be somewhat confused by this bit of advice, it is nonetheless timely.

For Dave Glickman has come to town with his unique skill at custom-tailoring to assure a cashmere coat that meets all your specifications as to style and size.

So conditions for buying are ideal regardless of the state of the weather or the time of the year.

EVERY YEAR

Mr. Glickman comes every year about this time and women flock to inspect his wares just as the children followed the Pied Piper. He has pioneered the cashmere coat business and knows that, next to mink and diamonds, cashmere is a girl's best friend.

What is it that a coat of cashmere has that makes the girls warm up to it like a long-lost friend?

Well, in the case of Mr. Glickman's cashmere, it's just the pure luxury of having this hair from a rare mountain goat arranged just the way you want it to look over your soft shoulders.

ADJUSTMENTS

He brings styles for you to try but makes adjustments to please.

For instance, if you want the new soft back that fashion is turning on coats, you find it cleverly handled in the quietest manner. In other words, the latest techniques in coat design are refined to a point worthy of cashmere.

But by far the most important point is that the styling is copied in your exact measurements. If you are extra tall, fabric is added before you get the coat and you don't have to worry about a larger size to get extra length.

And by the same token, if you're on the short side you don't have to fight your conscience over how much fabric is being wasted to get your proper hem length. The coat is made for you originally.

COST NO MORE

Sleeve lengths, shoulder cuts, neck fit and body drape are also part of the deal, and yet the cost to you is no more than if you chose a cashmere coat hanging from a store rack.

Along with your individual fit you are provided with a tortoise-shell-handled handbag of cashmere to match the coat of your choice.

Another good reason for selecting your cashmere coat custom-tailored in this manner is that you won't get it right away. Just think, you don't have to worry about moths, storage or any of those mundane tasks. Yet, at the first frost you can reach in your closet and wrap yourself in cashmere while the fall shoppers are mired down in buying theirs.

For shopping information, call JA 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

'Sack' Beach Dress Is Welcome Sight

It's been years since we have had any exciting fashions in beach dresses—or even any beach dresses at all! So the delightfully gay beach dresses that have been inspired by the current chemise fashion are welcome news, indeed.

Some of these are strictly for the beach — as some amusingly whimsical ones in terry cloth—knee length and even shorter! One of the latter is a straight hanging little shift in white terry with fringe at the bottom. Other beach dresses may double as play dresses—as some I have seen in cotton prints—with higher bateau necklines in front, low backs and perhaps a tiny bow tie at the waistline in back.

Colwell, York Vows Solemnized

The sanctuary of the First Baptist Church of Dublin formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Betty Rose York, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur W. York of Lilburn, to Staff Sgt. Olin Bryan Colwell, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo P. Colwell of Griffin.

The Rev. Charles H. Allen officiated at the service, after which Mr. and Mrs. York were hosts at a reception in the educational building of the church.

Mr. York gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white lace and net gown made by her mother. Her veil, also designed by her mother, fell from a bandeau of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and orchids.

Johnny Colwell of Griffin was his brother's best man, and ushers included another brother, George Colwell of Griffin, Bob Kindred and Vernon M. Smith of Warner Robins, and Lloyd Elder of Griffin.

Miss Evelyn York of Atlanta was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids included another sister, Miss Virginia York of Savannah, Miss Mary Morris of Newnan, Misses Joy Smith and Helen Register of Dublin.

ORANGE CHARLOTTE MIXES FRUIT FLAVORS
The First Prize Winner Gets Compliments in Every Family*

You Can Win Prize With This Star Recipe

By VIRGINIA DYSARD
Constitution Food Editor

Everyone who has any interest in cooking at all would like to try out the recipe that won first prize in a contest sponsored by the orange growers.

This is true no matter what the winner is, but when it is a dessert the interest is multiple.

The recipe below was entered by Margaret Gosner of San Bernardino, a first-time contestant, who took the top award in the cake division for her royal orange charlotte. High, wide and handsome, this cake looks like a dream. Fluffy meringue is spread on the sides of the cake, and a luscious golden filling of pineapple, orange, lemon juice and orange peel goes between and on the top. It's popped into the oven and allowed to reach a golden tan.

ROYAL ORANGE CHARLOTTE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour, or 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder (double action)
- ¾ teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup shortening, softened
- ¾ cup milk
- ¾ cup fresh orange juice
- 4 egg yolks (⅓ cup), unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt into large mixing bowl. Add softened shortening, milk and orange juice; beat 2 minutes at medium speed with electric mixer, or 200 strokes per minute by hand. Add egg yolks and orange peel; continue beating 2 minutes. Pour batter into two 9-inch layer cake pans; bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from pans; cool on rack; prepare filling.

ROYAL ORANGE FILLING

- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
- 1 cup oranges, peeled and chopped (2 medium oranges)
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel

Mix cornstarch and sugar in saucepan; blend in pineapple and chopped orange, coking until clear and thick, about 10 minutes. Add butter, lemon juice and orange peel; cool. Spread one half of cooled filling over bottom layer; one half over center of top layer, leaving a border of 1½ inches for meringue.

MERINGUE

- 4 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- ½ cup sugar
- 12 almond halves
- Green Maraschino cherries
- Grated orange peel

Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Add sugar gradually, beating until whites hold in firm glossy peaks. Frost sides and border of cake with meringue; brown in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 to 15 minutes. Decorate cake, if desired, with almond halves for flowers, cherries for leaves and grated orange peel for flower centers.

Mrs. Baker Weidinger's morning coffee for the future bride will take place on June 10 at her Brighton road residence, and on June 13 Miss Mary Virginia Gaines will entertain at supper. Another coffee for the bride-to-be is that at which Mrs. Charles R. Younts will be hostess on June 18. The day before the wedding, June 27, Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tichenor of Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Warfield of Nashville, Tenn., will give a breakfast for the bridal pair at the Capital City Club. That evening Mr. Marshall's mother, Mrs. Rembert Marshall, will be hostess at dinner at the Driving Club, following the wedding rehearsal. On the day of the wedding, Dr. and Mrs. William Kiser will be hosts to members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a breakfast.

Miss Emberson and Mr. Marshall will be married at an evening ceremony to be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church.

NASSAU HOUSE PARTY

A Strange, Fearful Case

MACON—"This is the most shocking thing that's happened in middle Georgia since the Woolfork murders," a woman told me.

The Woolfork murders. The name was vaguely familiar.

"There was a song," she said. And I tried to remember. Along with "Death of Mary Fagin" and "Death of Floyd Collins" there was another dreadful old ballad greatly beloved by the country people in my childhood.

"Woolfork said to Rutherford, 'Save me if you can.'" I couldn't remember any more. For the sake of the surviving members of the family, people in Macon don't talk about the Woolfork murder case any more, except when something reminds them of it. The case of the elderly woman who adopted young men and had their lives insured just before they rather mysteriously died, for instance.

Or the arsenic poisoning deaths of four relatives of Anjette Donovan Lyles.

The Lyles case has Macon reeling.

"I can't remember what we talked about before this came up," a young woman told me. "There's a new rumor every minute and each one's better than the last."

The only parallel between the present arsenic murders and the old Woolfork case, which was the sensation of the late 1800s, is that each had numerous victims. The Woolfork victims, eight brothers and sisters, ranging in age from infancy to adults, were allegedly killed by an 18-year-old brother who went berserk with an ax. He was convicted and hanged—and somebody wrote a song about it.

As many awful songs as we have I haven't heard one about a murder case in many years, although somebody suggested that the current ditty beginning, "I went to the witch doctor and asked him what to do," might be apropos of the Lyles case.

But the atmosphere created by mysterious death is a strange and fearful thing. People who have never pursued a celebrity in their lives will turn out in droves to see one of their number who is accused of murder. The day Anjette Lyles was transferred from the hospital to the Bibb County jail rumor of the transfer got out early and many people took up their vigil in doorways and windows all along the street. Some of them waited three or four hours for a glimpse of Anjette, who only a week ago had been visible all day long and far into the night running the restaurant across the street.

The courthouse steps and lawn were packed, people stumbled excitedly over their own feet and the feet of others as Deputy Bill Murphy drove into the courthouse driveway and pulled up at the basement entrance. They wanted to see what she looked like, how she reacted to being charged with four murders. She was no longer Anjette, the young woman who grew up in Macon and played afternoons of her childhood in front of her family's poultry and produce place on Poplar street. She was charged with having killed four people—two husbands, a mother-in-law and her child!

When the brief and brisk little show was over, when Anjette was no longer on view, the questions began circulating. How did she look? Was she sad? Was she angry? Did she look ill?

Far, far into the night I heard people who were there explaining to people who were not there how Anjette looked. The versions ranged from "cool as a cucumber" to "happy and unconcerned"—deepening, of course, somewhat on the eyes of the beholder.

The discovery of the strange and exotic props of witchcraft by sheriff's officers sent many Macon people to searching books on the old voodoo lore. Pictures of a man—the same man—pinned under her bed in a man's blue-ribbed sock, in her bureau drawer in the mate to the sock and in her stocking. Who was the man? The sheriff wasn't saying. What did it mean? Does a man's picture in a sock mean a woman loves or hates him?

"I don't know," Sheriff James I. Wood answered reporters wearily. "I'll have to consult my voodoo expert."

Little Ladd and Dad Play Human Roles in Movie

"And I'm proud of both my boys," his wife, silent movie star Sue Carroll, chimed in on the extension.

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

The happy parents were talking about 11-year-old David Ladd, who turns in an appealing performance in "The Proud Rebel." Mrs. Ladd, too, was referring to her husband's perceptive role as David's father in the motion picture.

PREMIERE HERE

The movie, which will hold its world premiere at the Rialto Theater on May 28, tells a human, rugged tale of a father's search for medical treatment for his son.

David is the son who has been stricken dumb by seeing his mother die in the Civil War burning of Atlanta.

In southern Illinois the wanderers stumble across an independent farm woman, portrayed by Olivia deHavilland. And thereby hangs the story of how each of these well-played characters works out his problems.

A LOT OF FEELING

On or off the screen, father and son Ladd get across a lot of feeling for each other. As Mr. Ladd put it, "I'm in love with David, and I think he's in love with me." The towheaded youngster's blue eyes mirror his dad's, but the parents claim he looks a bit like both of them.

David played his first major role when he was 10, and he takes to acting like his parents. The three older Ladd children (one is married) all are interested in the picture business, but little brother is rightfully the star now.

CHAMPION KING
Faithful to Boy

David, who attends a military academy in Hollywood, spent four weeks on location and took along a tutor to keep up with his lessons. He took along his own horse, too, which he rode in the movie.

IN SIXTH GRADE

Now in the sixth grade, he's a bright student, and his parents think he can miss a few days of school to come to the Atlanta premiere.

The opening is being sponsored by the Ladies Committee of the Variety Club. All proceeds will go to the Mountain View Camp, located in Hapeville, for underprivileged children. Miss de Havilland, too, will come to Atlanta for the occasion.

There were times, David's dad laughed, when the youngster had to be disciplined by his parents during the shooting of the film. "But we had a lot of fun together," he added, "and I let our director, Michael Curtiz, develop his difficult part."

A dog barked in the background as the Ladds were describing the Samuel Goldwyn Jr. production. "We love dogs," explained Mrs. Ladd, who has been credited with developing her husband's career, "and we have seven now."

TRAVELED IN EUROPE

Latest addition to the canine family is the son of King, the champion collie sheep dog who plays an important role in the outdoor picture. As a movie star's son, David gets a few advantages . . . he has traveled with his father all over Europe.

"He loves to do movies," explained his mother, "and we'll let him work in the summers if he wants to. We don't want to take him out of school, though."

Mr. Ladd added, "We won't make any more films together for a couple of years . . . let David see if he can make it on his own."

As a real father, what was Mr. Ladd's reaction to the tough decisions he had to make in the movie?

"I can only hope," commented the handsome actor, "that I would have the courage to do the things the film father did."

Merchants Get 'Sneak Preview' Of Paradies 1958 Toy Program

Merchants in the Southeast are getting a "sneak preview" of the toys that will be the big hits of the 1958 Christmas season in special dinner meetings now being held in key cities throughout this region.

These preview meetings are being sponsored by Paradies & Co., wholesale distributors, in anticipation of their annual Toy Show, beginning June 8 in Atlanta in the firm's showrooms at 817 Marietta St., NW.

Reason for the preliminary showing, according to Dan Paradies, vice president, is that this year's toy lines are expected to be the most exciting merchandise of this type ever to be presented to the trade. "Our manufacturers have truly come up with some spectacular items," said Mr. Paradies. "At our first meeting in Atlanta last week, we found dealers and salesmen highly enthusiastic, and we look for the same reception in other areas."

Birmingham—Tutwiler Hotel Monday May 12 7 p.m.
Chattanooga—Read House Tuesday May 13 7 p.m.
Nashville—Andrew Jackson Hotel Wednesday May 14 7 p.m.
Knoxville—Farragut Hotel Thursday May 15 7 p.m.
Greenville—Poinsetta Hotel Friday May 16 7 p.m.
Miami—McAllister Hotel Sunday May 18 7 p.m.
Orlando—Fort Gatlin Hotel Monday May 19 7 p.m.

In addition to presentation of the new toy lines, merchants are being advised of the '58 Santa's Playland book promotion, the gigantic Layaway promotion and a repeat of the highly successful 88c Toy Sale. Advertising kits to help dealers in their own promotional plans on these three programs are being made available at the dinner meetings.

Mr. Paradies said that further announcements on the forthcoming Toy Show in Atlanta will be made soon, so that all merchants who plan to attend will be able to make arrangements in ample time.

LOOKING OVER NEW TOYS—In top photo, Peter McNevin, Price Goldsmith and Ray Dew agree that this soft teddy bear will be a favorite gift item for children this year. And below, Mrs. Joyce White, Stephen Blackwell and D. L. Hornsby predict instant popularity for the lifelike baby doll and chair. These pictures were taken last week at the first "sneak preview" meeting for merchants in the Atlanta area who were guests of Paradies & Co. See story for details.

Second Annual Lighting Style Show Scores Big Success Here

"The Second Annual Lighting Style Show, held last week at the Atlanta Lighting Fixture Co., was an overwhelming success," said a joint announcement by Sy Ostrau and David Franco, co-owners of the local firm.

On hand to witness the showing of new lighting fixtures were prominent engineers, architects, designers, electrical contractors, and decorators, as well as the general public. "As a result of this show, many people have found that proper lighting style is essential both in the home and in the business world," the statement continued.

A various array of famous names such as Lightolier, Raymor and Dayna were among eye-catching displays at the show. "Lightolier has come out with a new program where you too can work wonders with light. Just as many of our visitors witnessed, Lightoiler has made it easy for you to transform your home like magic; set the stage for any mood or moment, accent an important occasion, nimbly serve your changing needs and supply pure, glareless custom - engineered lighting," explained Franco.

"Raymor featured imported Danish and Italian styles, which are futuristic in design. The jewel collection of layers of fine Scandinavian art glass used in various combinations was presented at this Second Annual Lighting Style Show for the first time," stated Ostrau.

"The efforts of leading continental and American designers, working with craftsmen from the four corners of Europe have produced Raymor's most complete line of lighting fixtures in three decades," Ostrau continued. "Also featured in this line were Howard Miller Clocks and bubble lights."

"Dayna featured distinctive and elegant fixtures, custom-crafted by top-ranking artisans from Europe. This fabulous collection unites talents trained through generations with the superb American styling by Melaine Kahane. Incidentally, Dayna is leading in the import traditional design."

Now is its second year of present ownership, Atlanta Lighting Fixture Co. is recognized as one of the most progressive concerns of its kind in the Southeast. With a complete stock of lighting fixtures, the firm serves engineers, architects, designers, electrical contractors and decorators.

Atlanta Lighting specializes in unusual decorative effects, such as water fountains and spravs, hotel and motel lighting, accent lighting for galleries, auditoriums, theaters, swimming pools, gardens and schools.

Drop by the Atlanta Lighting Fixtures Co. showrooms at 340 West Peachtree or call JA. 5-5648. for suggestions on how you may improve your present lighting style. For your convenience, the firm has free parking across the street.

Hot Weather Fast Approaching! 'Full Housepower' Insures Top Air-Conditioning Performance

ASSURANCE OF PEAK PERFORMANCE—Now that she knows her house has Full Housepower, Mrs. M. Frazier Duke can rest assured that her two air-conditioning units, as well as her other modern electrical facilities will function properly and have an extended life. Ralph Chapman, a Residential Sales Engineer for the Georgia Power Company, points out the many advantages of Full Housepower. Installation of these units was made by one of the electrical contractors cooperating in this campaign, listed at the right.

Full Housepower was already a part of Mrs. M. Frazier Duke's new home, even before she had two new air-conditioning units installed.

Located at 1444 Dalewood Dr., NE, the up-to-date home possesses many of the most modern electrical facilities, including an electric range, a washer - dryer combination, and a dishwasher only to name a few. Having moved in this home in January, Mrs. Duke never had the electrical system checked, that is until she called the Georgia Power Company and asked them to recommend an electrical contractor.

One of the cooperating electrical contractors, listed at the right, visited her home to inspect the wiring system and to give her a free estimate on installing the air-conditioning units. The contractor found that this home has 100-ampere service, which in this case is Full Housepower. In a few short hours, Mrs. Duke was enjoying "the comfort and convenience of air conditioning. The wonderful part of it all is that there was no mess to clean up after the job was finished," she stated.

"Since our home is locatd in a new subdivision, there is naturally a continual flow of dust coming from the nearby construction of new homes. As well as keeping our home free of dust, these air conditioners also keep out the clammering sounds of banging hammers and buzzing saws," Mrs. Duke continued.

After the job was completed, Ralph Chapman, one of Georgia Power's well-qualified Residential Sales Engineers, visited Mrs. Duke's home to see that these air conditioners were installed according to Georgia Power Company specifications. "Since Mrs. Duke already had Full Housepower, or adequate wiring, for the appliances presently in her home, it was only necessary to install proper wiring for the air-conditioning units. She can rest assured that these units as well as her other electrical appliances will have longer lives and at the same time operate at peak efficiency.

When asked to explain the meaning of Full Housepower, Chapman explained, "It is simply having adequate wiring in your home to supply the proper amount of current for the electrical appliances of modern-day living."

A large majority of homes in the Greater Atlanta Area do not have sufficient wiring to supply their present electrical needs. Most of these homes have only 60-ampere capacity, which was sufficient at one time. Now, the Atlanta building code requires a minimum of 100-ampere service in new-home construction, just as in the Duke residence. Full Housepower in some homes calls for more than the minimum service, depending on the number of electrical facilities in use.

Have your wiring system checked now, and enjoy the benefits of FULL HOUSEPOWER. Money is no problem in this campaign, for after making a small down payment, you may conveniently pay the balance for as little as $3 a month, along with your regular electric bill.

Take advantage of the Full Housepower plan being offered by the Georgia Power Company or any of the cooperating electrical contractors listed at the right. Any of these firms will gladly give you a free estimate and complete details without obligation.

As I See It

TV Makes Movies Look Mighty Good

By PAUL JONES

Variety, the mouthpiece of the world of entertainment, carries a headline this week which should wake up some of the sleepyheads in the television industry.

The headline says, in Variety's own little way: "TV Making Pix Biz Look Good." Which, when translated into everyday English, means simply that the type of programming now being offered on television is driving people back into the movie theaters.

The Variety story, under that headline, goes on to say: "Just as it was fashionable some years back, with the upsurge of the viedo medium, to observe 'I haven't been to a movie for who knows how long,' so too the pendulum has turned anti-TV, with viewing coast-to-coast downgraded compared to a year ago.

Jones

"One hears," the Variety story goes on, "just as often that he 'hasn't turned the darn thing on for weeks."

Now, I have many friends in the motion picture business and I don't object to people going to the movies. In fact I think you get more for your money at the movie palaces than you will in shopping for groceries, clothes or what-have-you. The movies are doing a bang-up job presently. They have come on with some "block-busters" as they call them and the industry is in the midst of a great prosperity in face of what we hear is a national recession.

I won't go so far as Variety goes and say that the booming business at the picture houses is due to a lack of interest in television. I think the movies have developed this interest on the basis of superb imagination and great showmanship.

In the face of tremendous competition from TV and in the face of a national recession the movie industry has come up with the type of merchandise people can't resist. I believe the movies would be thriving even if television was doing a top-notch job.

I AM NOT GOING to run television down and say that everything about television is wrong and that they should fire Perry Como and Dinah Shore, Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan and hire a new crop of stars and scuttle all the program ideas the westerns and the quiz shows.

But, I am going to say this is going to be a crucial year with the television industry. After you have weathered the "longest, hottest summer" in television history you are not going to put up with the same old warmed-over stuff next year that you have had this year.

I don't think you are going to fall for Perry Como's "relaxed" gags next year and I think some of those old quiz shows are going to look awfully moth-eaten by the fall of 1958. The networks think they're going to be able to refurbish their line-ups with westerns because, they think, all you have to do is dress a hero in a pair of chaps, put him on a horse and hand him a .45 revolver and he automatically becomes a "Star"—a hero the TV fans find irresistible.

No, I think the western stars, some of them at least, are going to ride for a fall this next season.

I THINK DINAH SHORE is going to have to find a substitute for that big kiss she's been tossing to TV America for the past four years and I think many of the other stars are going to have to change drastically their way of doing their shows, or else more people are going to be saying "I haven't turned the darn thing on all winter."

Dinah Shore

The television set, like the motion picture, is a great thing. It is a magic lantern which has taught us a new meaning of the words "convenience" and "comfort."

But if the TV industry doesn't watch out it's going to be in the same fix the movie industry was in several years ago.

• • •

D. B. MEDFORD of Marietta, writes: "Add six votes to your list for 'live' summer TV. We would like to see some of the good shows that come on too late via the snapping, flickering, 'canned' programming we no see."

Bunche in Israel

SONG STLYIST—Singer Terri Stevens will be guest on Bert Parks' Bandstand Friday. The series, featuring music by Skitch Henderson and his orchestra is a daily feature on NBC-Radio and WSB.

Ed Sullivan Will Present Reds' Moiseyev Dancers

By VAL ADAMS

NEW YORK—Ed Sullivan said the Moiseyev Dance Company of Moscow will appear on his television program June 29 over CBS.

The Russian folk dancers are on a tour of this country and Canada. They have completed a three-week engagement at the Metropolitan Opera House and will return here for four performances in Madison Square Garden on June 20, 21 and 22.

Sullivan and Sol Hurok, the impresario who brought the dancers to this country, completed arrangements for their American television debut. The producer and television host said the bulk of the progrm, which is televised from 8 to 9 p.m. on Sundays, will be turned over to the dancers.

The demand for tickets to the recent performances here by the company was hardly less than sensational. There were reliable reports that $8.05 tickets, at box-office value, had brought as high as $80 a pair.

The General Electric Co., has decided not to renew its sponsorship of Cheyenne for the 1958-59 season. The filmed Western series starring Clint Walker is televised on alternate Tuesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. over ABC. General Electric's contract for sponshorship of Cheyenne runs until the middle of September. The series is produced by Warner Bros. Pictures.

The J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency says Bat Masterson will be sponsored jointly next season by two divisions of National Dairy Products Corp. The divisions are Sealtest and Kraft foods.

As reported earlier, the filmed Western series will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co. from 9:30 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays, beginning in the fall.

$150,000 Winner Keeps Going

PAUL JONES' PICK OF THE DAY—I think almost everyone is interested in whether Alfreda Von Nardoff can continue to add to her $150,000 winnings in her incredible display of knowledge, on the "21" show.

So far, the producers of the show haven't been able to produce anyone who can match the attractive girl when it comes to answering questions. Will she continue her conquest and become the biggest money winner in TV quiz history? She seems well on her way to that title.

9th Annual Travel and Vacation Guide

You'll find everything you want to know when planning your vacation in this handy guide. Here's information about hotels and motels, resorts, beaches and mountain retreats. The guide tells you how to get there, the tourist and scenic attractions along the way, and what to see and do when you arrive.

Summer Work for Students

Each summer hundreds of high school and college students seek employment for their vacation period. Atlanta Journal staff writer Margaret Shannon examines the best places to look and tells students what they can expect in the way of employment opportunities for the summer.

Could Dr. Von Braun Teach in Georgia

Would it be possible for Dr. Walter Von Braun, who presumably has had no education training, to teach a science course in Atlanta high schools? Are Georgia teachers required to spend more time learning how to teach rather than what to teach? An Atlanta Constitution staff writer looks for the answers to these questions brought about by the current interest in education.

A Course In "Drownproofing"

Homer Meaders, Atlanta Journal staff writer, reports that swimmers can be "drownproofed" in a course taught at Georgia Tech. It's strictly for experts, however. The course—developed at Tech—is now taught at Emory, Duke and the U.S. Naval Academy.

State May Be Source Of Valuable Minerals

By BOB WILLIMON

The geiger counter on his automobile seat jumped up to three times the normal "background" count as Dr. Carsbie Adams drove leisurely along the winding blacktop highway at his plantation near Culloden.

Excited and "hoping for" a deposit of very valuable pitchblende, the Atlanta executive moments later had pinpointed as the "hot spot" and outcropping of granite under gently soughing roadside pine thickets.

That was in late 1956.

Months later—after a 20-man-day geological survey costing "several thousand" dollars—Dr. Adams knew the nature and extent of his find.

It wasn't pitchblende, but monazite, ilmenite and zircon—"rare and valuable" minerals which Dr. Vernon J. Hurst, a state geologist, said can be mined profitably in Georgia if found in sufficient quality and quantity.

With professional caution, Dr. Hurst hedged on the question of whether they will be.

Dr. Adams reports that "several companies, including two of the nation's biggest chemical-mineral firms," are interested in his find from either a lease or purchase standpoint.

The scientific survey, which covered some 200 of 700 acres revealed "a very high monazite content" in the "several thousand tons" of available ore.

Described as the most valuable of the three minerals, monazite is a base ore for thorium, which Dr. Hurst said is reportedly being eyed as a possible substitute for uranium in atomic energy operations.

Found in granite in the form of tiny sand-like crystals of yellow or yellow-brown hue, monazite is currently selling on the world market for from $300 to $400 a ton, according to an April quotation in the Engineering and Mining Journal.

One of the big obstacles to the development of Georgia's deposits of these minerals, however, is the fact that they are "rock" deposits. The mineral must be extracted by heavy and expensive crushing mills—installations of a type never before used "as far as I know" in connection with these particular resources, Dr. Hurst said.

Whether such mills will be erected in Georgia depends on the "quality, size and location" of deposits, Dr. Hurst continued. "It would take an investment of several million dollars to make a profit, so it will have to be a project for very big companies."

U.S. supplies of monazite "used to come" from Brazil and India, Dr. Hurst said. He added that since these countries have restricted their exports of the mineral, the quest for domestic deposits has been intensified. Operations which extract monazite washed away from decomposed granite from soil deposits are under way at three locations in Florida and South Carolina, he said.

Several other deposits show up elsewhere in the state.

Dr. Hurst said the study was labeled "inconclusive" by its author, and indications are there are other deposits in areas not fully surveyed.

Commenting on the potential for these minerals in Georgia, Dr. Hurst said:

"Local areas in some of the granitic gneisses (mineral-bearing strata in granite) in Georgia contain monazite, zircon, rutile and/or ilmenite which—if extracted—would be worth at present prices from $10 to $15 per ton of gneiss.

"Several operating mines — including gold mines — are profitably extracting materials worth as little as $8 or $9 a ton. Moreover, the process of extracting the heavy (monazite, etc.) minerals is no more involved nor expensive than these other materials now being mined."

Ilmenite, now quoted at from $26.25 to $30 a ton, is a base ore for titanium—an important heat-resistant metal used in missile and jet-engine manufacture. Zircon, selling at $50 to $51 per 2,240-lb. ton, has "important nuclear energy" applications.

Georgians who think they might have these or other valuable minerals on their property may forward ore samples to the Georgia Department of Mines, Mining & Geology, 19 Hunter St., SW, Atlanta.

No private surveys are conducted by the department, but if a sample has sufficient promise the department will look further into the matter with the property owner's consent.

A "systematic survey" is "absolutely necessary" to realizing the potential of heavy-mineral deposits, Dr. Hurst said. He lamented, however, that most people are either disinclined or financially unable to carry out such a project.

2 Gunmen Rob Store of $120

Two gunmen—one redhaired—early Sunday robbed a fruit stand at 1087 Memorial Dr., SE, of $120, police said.

An employe, Roy H. Carter, said the two entered, drew guns and ordered him to lie on the floor. He said they scooped up money from the cash register, also took a box filled with change and a pistol which they found under the counter.

Power Plant Dedication Set May 27

Georgia Power Co. has set May 27 as the date of formal dedication ceremonies for its new $41,000,000 Plant Hammond steam-electric generating plant near Rome.

William Hammond

Principal speakers for the event, at which retired Georgia Power designer William P. Hammond will be honor guest, will be Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver and Rep. Erwin Mitchell.

Hammond, a Georgia Tech graduate, joined Georgia Power in 1913 and helped design and construct "nearly every" major generating plant in the company's system. Plant Hammond can produce 300,000 kilowatts of electricity, enough to supply a half million homes, officials said.

Top Credit Ratings

The governments of Atlanta and Fulton County were lauded here Sunday for maintaining top credit ratings in the municipal bond field.

"It is very unusual for (governmental units of that size) to increase their debt by a total of $85,000,000 and keep their high AA rating," commented Joe Morris, vice president of the Robinson-Humphrey Co., Inc.

Morris, who is financial adviser to both governments, made these remarks in connection with the placing on the market last week of a $10,350,000 first increment of a $35,000,000 Fulton County issue approved April 17. Atlanta recently approved a $52,000,000 issue.

Newsprint 'Harvest'

To produce the newsprint for advertising space alone in 1957, 26,000 men worked a year in woodlands and mills, harvesting an estimated 75,000,000 trees.

GOREN on BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Weekly Bridge Quiz

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ 10 6 ♥ 9 3 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ Q 10 7 6 5 4
Partner opens with two no trump. What is your response?

A.—Strictly speaking, you have not the required four points to justify a raise, but a bid of three no trump is a good gamble in that there is a reasonable chance of bringing in the club suit.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ A Q J 10 5 ♥ Q 5 2 ♦ J 10 ♣ A 10 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 diams.	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—An ace-showing bid of five clubs is recommended. When partner makes a first round slam try, as in this case, and then supports your suit, anything at all above a minimum justifies the taking of further action. You haven't much above a minimum but the fact that your hand contains two controls is sufficient reason for giving partner one more chance.

Q. 3—You are South with 60 part score and you hold:
♠ A Q ♥ A J 7 ♦ K 10 8 6 4 2 ♣ 10 7
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 diams.	2 hearts
3 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—The recommended procedure is a cue bid of four hearts, to be followed by a bid of six spades on the next round. Partner has opened the bidding and jumped over the game, where a free bid itself would have indicated a strong hand. Since you have better than an opening bid and important key cards, the slam should be a cinch. However, in case a grand slam should be available, it may be necessary for you to show control of the adverse suit.

Q. 4—As South you hold.
♠ A 7 2 ♥ 9 4 3 ♦ A K Q 8 4 ♣ A 2
What is your opening bid?

A.—One no trump. This band contains 17 points in high cards, has three suits protected, and is of balanced distribution. An opening bid of one diamond is not the best tactics, for it leaves you with no convenient rebid if partner responds with either one heart or one spade. An opening one no trump bid avoids this difficulty.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 6 4 3 ♥ A 4 ♦ A 9 6 5 ♣ K J 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	?

What is your bid?

A.—It is to be hoped that you were not naive enough to show one of your own suits. In this sequence partner is under no obligation to proceed, and you might find it uncomfortable to be left in a contract of three clubs or three diamonds. The proper procedure is to raise to three hearts, or, with a rather timid partner, even four hearts.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ 5 ♥ A Q J 7 2 ♦ 8 3 ♣ K Q 10 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 diams.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. This hand is worth only 15 points and is not strong enough to show a new suit at the level of three.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ 9 2 ♥ A Q 10 5 4 ♦ 9 4 2 ♣ 9 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	1 no trp.	Pass	?

What is your bid?

A.—Partner's one no trump overcall should be treated as though it were an opening bid of one no trump. Inasmuch as you have a balanced hand with only 6 points, no action by you is indicated. Do not complicate matters with a bid of two hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ A K 9 5 ♥ A 7 3 ♦ Q 3 ♣ A K 10 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diam.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump, showing a balanced hand with 19 or 20 points in high cards. The major suit is suppressed because there is no spade bid that suits the situation. A rebid of one spade is inadequate, and a rebid of two spades would be just a shade too aggressive inasmuch as it would be forcing to game even if partner had made a shaded diamond response. Partner should be permitted the option to pass if his hand has less than 6 points in high cards.

End Booby Traps Around the House

Accidents in the home take a terrific toll among the young and the old particularly. The aged person with brittle bones is unusually vulnerable. This means that an intense effort ought to be made to eliminate all booby traps in the household.

Fractured hips and wrists are the most common injuries resulting from falls. A broken hip takes a long time to mend and surgery frequently is needed. Polished floors and scatter rugs induce many of these mishaps.

Tack down loose rugs, use an antiskid pad beneath them, or replace with large firm rugs. This will prove less expensive than the surgical and hospital bills, should an accident occur. . . . . .

In the dark, the elderly often trip over furniture, boxes or doorsills. Many go to the bathroom once or twice during the night and may be dizzy or confused for a moment or two on first getting up. Night lights are inexpensive and use little electricity; one should be placed near the bed, another in the hall, and a third in the bathroom.

Anyone can slip in the tub so that a nonskid mat is a good investment. Infirm persons benefit from a bath seat or nonslip shower stool. A variety of bathroom safety devices are available for the handicapped, including wheelchair patients.

Stairways are treacherous. The handrail must fit securely, an extra banister on the other side is helpful when there is an invalid in the house. Get rid of loose rugs at the top and bottom of the stairs and install lights and switches in these areas.

Stepladders are for the young who know how to use them but can be lethal if utilized carelessly. Even worse is to employ a chair as a substitute. Planning the kitchen to have everything within reach will protect the aged woman who does the cooking. If modern electrical appliances are used, the younger women in the family should see to it that grandma knows how to employ them safely.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed.

Cerebral Palsy School Is Lesson in Courage

Skeeter Faulkner, 15, put his head on Mrs. Agnes Seymour's shoulder and said in a halting voice, "What I want to do is be on your staff here!"

Skeeter, whose real name is Arthur, was one of several boys at the moment in the vocational rehabilitation shop of Atlanta's Cerebral Palsy School. Mrs. Seymour, who says she is "everybody's grandma," is really administrator of the school.

All of her students are children and young people who have had a "short circuit" in that part of the brain which controls muscular coordination. The palsy is present in greater or lesser degree in all of the students.

Automatic Reflexes Missing

Things we take for granted, like tying shoes, walking, talking, sitting, standing—things we do by reflex without thinking—these children must make conscious effort to do. There is nothing wrong at all with their intelligence, but the conscious brain must work all the time to do things done by normal people automatically.

Before the school was founded in Atlanta in 1950—and even now in places not as lucky as Atlanta to have such a school—little effort was made to train cerebral palsy patients to take a place in society. They were shunted aside—loved by parents—but more or less hidden from the world.

Mrs. Seymour, a lovable, motherly woman, said, "You'd be surprised at the things we have to teach these children. They have never really come into contact with society as we know it. Where you, as a child, ran down to the store for Mother, these children stayed at home. They know nothing about money, for instance, when they come to the school. Their contact with everyday life, as we know it, is very limited.

Newspaper Sale Supports School

The school is supported by the sale of newspapers on Old Newspaperboys' Day each year. The Variety Club and both Atlanta papers sponsor the sale and some $100,000 is raised each year for the school. The sale will be held this coming Friday, so get your money ready.

There is no cure for cerebral palsy, so you would think hope would be lacking in the students at the school. Far from it, indeed. Each one is doing his, or her, level best to improve the skills he has. It is a major achievement to make a letter, much less write a sentence, but they keep plugging away.

Any time you feel like you need a lesson in courage, or a lesson in patience, or a lesson in ambition, or a lesson in tenacity, or a lesson in love—visit the school. You will come away with your heart hurting, but you will know you've seen some of the finest young folks in the world.

Daily Guide—After a somewhat irritable early start the day should develop more friendly sparkle in the morning and have a happy conclusion. Naturally, it is up to each one to cooperate with friendly and cheerful conduct. The aspects this week are not world-shaking, so one can safely slow down a little, relax and enjoy more social activities. Plan hospitality for Wednesday, stimulating contacts for Thursday.

Those born at the end of March, April or July should find today especially favorable to strike up new friendships, seek stimulating entertainment.

Happy Birthday, Taurus! An accent on your affairs starts on this coming weekend, so get ready to push forward. In July you will be under greater stress than for some time and can expect this to be an unusual year of events and activities, with continuing stress.

It might not be a comfortable or restful year, but you may discover new talents, make some unusual alliance, even marriage if eligible. Avoid letting your restlessness carry you too far in upsetting the applecart. Changes will come soon enough. Domestic and business changes can be expected.

HERE ARE THE MAIN ISSUES IN THE STRIKE AT LOCKHEED IN MARIETTA

Some Union Members contend that Lockheed wants to transfer employees from California to Marietta with full seniority and bump people here out of jobs.

This is absolutely not true. Never in the history of the Georgia Division has an hourly rated employee from another division displaced a Georgia Division employee. All seniority with the Georgia Division dates from the day an employee goes on the payroll of this Division.

UNION DEMANDS	LOCKHEED POSITION
The Union demands that all employees whose pay is figured by the hour, be forced to pay Union dues whether they belong to the Union or not.	The Company believes that Union membership is a matter of personal choice and that no American citizen should be forced to pay Union dues in order to hold a job. Furthermore, Georgia law forbids the forcing of non-union employees to pay Union dues in order to hold their jobs
The Union demands that only seniority and not skill, ability or efficiency should be considered when promoting, transferring or laying off employees.	The Company recognizes, and always has given full consideration to seniority, but believes that in America individual skill, ability and efficiency must be fully utilized.
The Union is complaining that large numbers of employees have been laid off in recent months.	These layoffs are beyond the control of Lockheed and are due to federal budget cuts, and no changes in the Union Contract could have prevented such layoffs.
The Union demands that an employee earn no seniority while in a supervisory job.	The Company believes that promotion should not make an employee lose seniority if he should return to an hourly job.
The Union is demanding that union chairmen be allowed to spend a large percentage of their time on union business during Company-paid working hours.	The Company recognizes that Union chairmen should be allowed a reasonable amount of time to conduct Union business but such activities must be controlled as to the amount of time allotted and the area in which such work may be conducted. This activity must be controlled, since during the past two years the Union chairmen have abused this privilege.
